McMAHON LEADS FREE STATE ARMY

Named Chief of Staff of Irish Forces

Succeeds Richard Mulcahy as Military Leader

Dublin, Sept. 16.—Major-General John McMahon has been appointed Chief of Staff of the Free State Army. He succeeds Richard Mulcahy.

Ballina Retaken.
London, Sept. 16.—Irish Free State troops have recaptured Ballina, says a dispatch to The Times from Dublin. The irregulars hurriedly left the town.

ALL-DAY BATTLE FOUGHT IN SLIGO

Dublin, Sept. 16.—An all-day battle occurred in Sligo Thursday between national army forces and irregulars. Commandant General John J. McKeown, in a dispatch to-day, described the "magnificent national troops" as showing courage, tenacity and unequalled in dislodging the irregulars from an almost impregnable position.

The national troops' casualties, declared to include Brigadier-General Ring, killed, and Brigadier-General Lator, slightly wounded. The irregular casualties are described as heavy. The national troops took thirteen prisoners. The irregulars fired an armored car covering their retreat.

The dispatch also told of a chase by national troops and irregulars at Lough Talt, in which heavy casualties were inflicted upon the irregulars, while the national troops suffered no losses.

At Mullin's Cross a sergeant was shot dead at the wheel of a national armored car.

The dispatch adds that large concentration movements of troops are occurring throughout West Ireland.

N. CHAMBERLAIN COMING TO VICTORIA

Son of Famous Colonial Minister Touring Canada

Sees No Substitute for Lloyd George in Premiership

Neville Chamberlain, member of the British Commons, representing one of the Birmingham constituencies, will shortly be a visitor to this city. Mr. Chamberlain was a passenger arriving at Quebec yesterday afternoon on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland from Southampton.

To See West.
Quebec, Sept. 15.—Neville Chamberlain, M.P., who is the son of the late Joseph Chamberlain, in an interview said: "I am taking advantage of the fact that the British House of Commons does not sit again until the middle of November. My wife and I determined to seize the opportunity of seeing something of the great Dominion."

"We shall endeavor during our trip to see as much as possible of the country and the people, but the distances are so vast that we shall have to leave out of some of our tours much that we should have liked to include."

"On this occasion at any rate we shall not be able to visit all provinces. We expect to spend a couple of days in Quebec and then proceed to Montreal. After brief stay there (concluded on page 4.)"

OCTOBER ELECTION TALK IN BRITAIN

Solid Basis for Reports Seems Lacking

London, Sept. 16 (Canadian Press Cable).—There has been a revival this week of the rumors that a general election will take place in October. Although it is difficult to find any solid basis for these reports.

In Manchester, which is hardly second to London as a centre of political influence, it is stated that Labor officials have received instructions to prepare for an immediate contest. The Labor leaders deny the authenticity of the report, but The Evening Chronicle, which first carried the rumor, persists that it is correct.

Budget.
The parliamentary correspondent of The London Times thinks much will depend upon the producing of a popular budget next Spring, but says that if this should prove impossible the Government might prefer to gather what elements of gratitude remain from this year's reduction of taxation. New voters' lists certainly will be ready by the middle of next month, but municipal elections invariably fall in November and will make October a bad month for Parliamentary contests. The necessity for Irish legislation also seems to rule out October.

The Laborites declare they will fight wherever possible whenever the election comes. The party had 231 candidates in the field on the occasion of the last election. Already 400 are definitely accepted for the next election, with another fifty probable. About half of these are trades union candidates, only four of the present twenty-five Laborites in the House of Commons not seeking re-election.

The new Labor candidates include army and navy officers, doctors, non-conformist ministers and several women.

EARTHQUAKE IN SPAIN INJURED A FEW PEOPLE

Vigo, Spain, Sept. 16.—A sharp earthquake last evening, lasting several seconds, caused the collapse of a number of small cottages in the villages of Vimeos and Ciribitaveo. A few persons were injured. The inhabitants took refuge in the fields.

CONSULATES IN SMYRNA WERE DESTROYED BY FIRE

London, Sept. 16.—Official dispatches from Smyrna to-day state that all the foreign consulates were destroyed by fire, with the exception of those of Spain, Belgium and Norway.

TALES OF HORROR COME FROM SMYRNA

Exact Total of Deaths Not Known

Many Defenceless Victims Ended Their Lives

Constantinople, Sept. 16.—Upwards of 2,000 persons perished in the great fire at Smyrna. 2,500 buildings were destroyed and much foreign property wiped out.

London, Sept. 16.—Estimates of the number killed at Smyrna vary greatly. Athens dispatches quote an American relief worker as declaring that up to Thursday morning there had been 120,000 deaths. It is thought this figure may include the wounded also, as previous reports placed the number of dead at from 1,000 to 2,000.

A Great Tragedy.
London, Sept. 16.—Succeeding dispatches from Constantinople, Athens and other centres of information in the Near East tend only to magnify the tale of the tragedy in Smyrna. The greater part of the city is in ruins, laid waste by a conflagration of incendiary origin, and the flames, according to latest reports, had reached the waterfront, where the quays were crowded with fear-stricken Christian refugees who had fled to the city as the nearest port of escape from the Turks.

Many Grieved Themselves.
Many have thrown themselves into the water rather than run the risk of being burned alive or of facing Mustafa Kemal Pasha's soldiers drunk with victory and fired with religious fanaticism.

Others have not had the chance to choose, according to dispatches from Greek sources, which tell of horrible tortures and mutilations and wholesale executions. Large numbers of Greek soldiers and sailors, drunk with victory and fired with religious fanaticism, have thrown themselves into the sea. Allegations of having served in the Greek army bring death sentences.

Landward from the city, it is said, the buildings are burning and the whole countryside has been devastated.

Greater Than Salonic.
Constantinople, Sept. 16.—The Smyrna catastrophe, say direct advices received here, is of much greater proportions than the conflagration at Salonic in 1917, which caused 100,000 deaths and left 200,000 homeless.

A heavy rain continued to fall after the fire, making the plight of the inhabitants and refugees pitiful. Thousands of the frantic populace fled to the waterfront and pleaded with the small forces of blue-jackets to give them shelter above the destroyers. Many in desperation jumped into the water and were drowned.

Pestilence.
The city is without adequate food and water and the deplorable lack of sanitary conditions is giving rise to pestilence.

TO MOVE SHINGLE MILLS TO B.C.

Washington and Oregon Manufacturers Make Plans

Removal of U.S. Duty on Shingles the Cause

Seattle, Sept. 16.—"It is almost impossible to predict our exact policy relative to the recent reporting to the Senate and House of the administration bill putting shingles on the free list. However, it is almost certain we shall dismantle our four large shingle mills ultimately, and transport them to British Columbia."

This was the statement made yesterday by John McMaisters, of the John McMaisters Shingle Company, one of the largest shingle manufacturers in Washington and Oregon.

"The situation is very serious," continued Mr. McMaisters, "the output in Washington and Oregon last year was approximately 7,000,000 shingles, and that of British Columbia about 2,000,000,000. But the recent financial action of the conference committee will undoubtedly reverse these outputs."

To British Columbia.
Mr. McMaisters announced the ultimate intention of moving his mills to British Columbia as approximately the intention of every large shingle manufacturer in the two states.

Oriental labor, cheaper wages and longer hours of Canada can not be equalled here, it is declared.

The resumption of an import duty of $1 per 1,000 feet on logs renders it more difficult for local manufacturers to bring logs into the United States, say local manufacturers.

The new tariff bill also plays into the hands of patent roofing interests, say the shinglemen, by granting a high protective tariff on roofing products.

SALLY'S ALLEY WON FUTURITY RACE TO-DAY

New York, Sept. 16.—Sally's Alley to-day won the classic Futurity Race for two-year-olds at Belmont Park. She was second and Wilderness third. The winner's time was 1:11.

PLANTS CLOSE AND 100,000 MEN IDLE

Ford Interests Refuse to Pay Coal Prices

Detroit, Sept. 16.—As a protest against what he believes to be exorbitant prices demanded for coal and steel, Henry Ford to-day began the process of closing up his big industry. With the suspension complete when the last shift of workers leave the various factories to-night, approximately 100,000 men will have been rendered idle for an indefinite period.

The plants affected include the five factories in the Detroit area and numerous assembling stations throughout the country. In many cases, the output of which goes chiefly to the Ford Company, also are expected to suspend operations.

The Ford workers being shown out of employment, total approximately 70,000.

Mr. Ford announced several weeks ago that he would close his Detroit plants September 16 because of the coal situation. He denied that a real coal shortage existed, and charged that certain coal brokers were demanding an exorbitant price for fuel.

CHIEF OF NATIONAL RAILWAYS CHOSEN

Premier Says Able Man to Be Appointed

Name Not Made Public Yet; Selecting Directors

Stouffville, Ont., Sept. 16.—Early announcement of the new head of the Canadian National Railways and the names of the men with whom will compose the board was made here by Premier King.

Addressing a large gathering of electors of North York, the Prime Minister said: "I am taking advantage of the fact that the British House of Commons does not sit again until the middle of November. My wife and I determined to seize the opportunity of seeing something of the great Dominion."

"We shall endeavor during our trip to see as much as possible of the country and the people, but the distances are so vast that we shall have to leave out of some of our tours much that we should have liked to include."

NEW ZEALAND READY TO SHARE IN OPERATIONS

London, Sept. 16.—New Zealand has replied to the Government's communication, saying she will be represented by a contingent in dealing with the Turkish situation.

NATIONS ASKED TO AID DEFENCE

Rumanian-Jugo-Slav Assistance in Near East

Request Made By British Government

London, Sept. 16.—The British Government, addressing Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Greece, is asking their participation in an effective defence of the neutral zone, it was learned officially to-day.

Great Britain also has invited the Dominions of the British Empire to be represented by contingents in the defence of those interests for which they have already made enormous sacrifices.

This announcement followed the semi-official statement that the British Government had adopted the attitude that the effective and permanent freedom of the Dardanelles is a vital necessity.

During the past week the British Cabinet has continually been studying the situation created by the approach of the Turkish Nationalist forces to Constantinople and the Dardanelles and the demands made by the Anglo Government.

The British Government holds that the demands, if assented to, involve nothing less than the entire loss of the results of victory over Turkey in the later war.

A Disaster.
The British Government holds that if the Allies were to permit the Turkish Nationalist forces to enter Constantinople by the forces of Mustafa Kemal Pasha it would be an event of the most disastrous character, producing far-reaching reactions, not only throughout all the Moslem countries, but throughout all the states defeated in the later war, who would be profoundly encouraged by the spectacle of the undreamed-of success which has attended the efforts of the comparatively weak Turkish forces.

Must Respect Neutral Zones.
The Government has instructed the British High Commissioner at Constantinople to notify Mustafa Kemal Pasha that the neutral zones established under the flags of the three great powers must be respected.

It is maintained that an adequate force must be available to guard the freedom of the straits and to defend the deep-water line between Europe and Asia against violent and hostile Turkish aggression.

Reinforcements for British Troops.
It is announced that Great Britain intends to reinforce immediately, and if necessary to a considerable extent, the forces at the disposal of General Harrington, British commander at Constantinople. Orders have been given to the British fleet in the Mediterranean to oppose by every means an infringement of the neutral zones by the Turks or any attempt by them to cross to the European shore.

The British Government insists that the control of the straits affects British interests, European interests and world interests of the first order. Satisfaction is expressed that the British views are shared by France and Italy, which are the other two great powers principally concerned.

Constantinople.
The question of Constantinople stands somewhat differently, the British Government maintains. It is pointed out that for more than two years it has been decided that the Turks should not be deprived of Constantinople. On January of last year, at the conference in London, representatives of the Constantinople Government were informed of the intention of the Allies to restore Constantinople to the Turks subject to other matters being satisfactorily adjusted.

Conference at Early Date Urged.
It is the wish of the British Government that a conference should be held as speedily as possible in any place generally acceptable to the other powers involved. That at that conference a resolute and sustained effort should be made to secure the permanent freedom of the Dardanelles is considered particularly significant at this time.

SENT BY BRITISH TO CONSTANTINOPLE; EARL OF YPRES

London, Sept. 16.—The Earl of Ypres, who was sent by the British Government to Constantinople, is expected to arrive here shortly.

25,000 WOMEN AND GIRLS TAKEN

Christians Carried Away by Turks in Asia Minor

Appalling Result of Turkish Victory Reported

London, Sept. 16.—"Twenty-five thousand Christian women and girls have been conveyed to the interior and distributed among the Turkish soldiers," says a dispatch to The Times from M. Lascaris, editor of Kosmos, a Smyrna newspaper, who has arrived on the island of Mytilene.

"New refugees from Smyrna arrived here this morning (September 15) including many Americans and English. They say the Turks are using machine guns at the street corners, killing indiscriminately," the dispatch adds.

TURKS CELEBRATE THEIR VICTORY

Wave of Enthusiasm Sweeps the Country

Sultan Visits Tomb of Old Conqueror

Constantinople, Sept. 16.—Renewed celebrations were held throughout Asia Minor yesterday to mark the sweeping Turkish victory over the Greeks. Friday is the Turkish Sunday and the entire Moslem population ceased its usual pursuits and repaired to the mosques to offer prayers of thanksgiving to Allah.

For the first time since 1453, when the Turks captured Constantinople, the Sultan went to the tomb of Mohammed the Conqueror, in Stambul, and paid homage to the memory of his illustrious predecessor. Several miles of exulting and jubilant Turks with flaming flags watched their sovereign pass. The Sultan's passage through the open streets has had no precedent in recent years and the people gave him a stirring but reverent ovation. Heretofore he has confined himself to the palace at Yildiz and observed as much privacy as the Pope in the Vatican.

Many Flags.
Constantinople is a forest of crimson flags with the familiar star and crescent. The colors even fly from the four commanding minarets of the famous Mosque of St. Sophia, whose recapture has been the dream of the Greeks for centuries.

A wave of enthusiasm has swept over the Turks and everywhere one hears the declaration that the Christians must be driven out and the ancient glory of the capital re-established.

Many Greeks and Armenians, apprehensive of the occupation of the city by the forces of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, are leaving.

AMERICANS SEND GOLD TO CANADA

Montreal Shipment First Since the Armistice

Toronto, Sept. 16.—A New York special dispatch to The Globe says: "The first gold to move to Canada since the signing of the armistice has been shipped from New York. Postal announcement was made yesterday that the New York Trust Company had shipped $500,000 in gold coin to the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Montreal."

This shipment follows the recent strength of Canadian exchange and the fact that it had touched par after a long depression, as expressed in the premium offered on dollars, amounting to as much as 18 per cent. at one time. The movement of gold to Canada is considered particularly significant at this time.

CANADIAN MINISTRY TO CONSIDER REQUEST FOR AN ARMED FORCE

Dominions Invited By Great Britain to Be Represented By Contingents In Force In Dardanelles-Constantinople Neutral Zone.

London, Sept. 16.—Great Britain has invited Canada and the other Dominions of the Empire to be represented by contingents in the British force taking part in an effective defence of the neutral zone in the Near East, it was authoritatively reported to-day.

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press).—News of Great Britain's invitation to the Canadian Government to send a contingent of troops to the Near East came as a surprise to Government officials here to-day. At the Prime Minister's office and at the Department of Militia and Defence it was stated this afternoon that such an invitation had not yet been received or communicated to the Department.

Premier King is in his constituency of North York this afternoon and is scheduled to address the York Pioneers' Association at Sharon, Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Defence, will be taken up by the Ministers who are now in the city.

Speaking over the long distance telephone from Brockville, where he is spending the weekend, his home, Hon. George P. Graham, Deputy Minister of Militia, is in the city, but had received no word of the invitation until the press dispatch was read to him.

"The Government, it is anticipated, will take speedy action in regard to the request of the British Government as soon as the Prime Minister returns to Ottawa. He will leave Toronto to-night for the capital and will be here to-morrow morning. A meeting of the Cabinet is to be held on Monday, when this matter, it is expected, will be taken up by the Ministers who are now in the city."

Members of British firms engaged in the Levantine trade say the results will be calamitous to them, while numbers of prosperous Greek and Armenian traders face ruin. The dried fruit, carpet, tobacco and cotton goods trades are among the worst sufferers, have been sunk in Smyrna and the surrounding districts.

The loss of the dried fruit crop will be a heavy blow. The usual export trade had just begun; the crop was above the average and nearly 100,000 tons were awaiting exportation. All of this was burned by the accounts of the area covered by the fire are accurate.

M. Vitte, secretary of the Smyrna British Chamber of Commerce, told The Globe Express that more than 2,000,000 of British capital was sunk in Smyrna and the surrounding districts.

ENORMOUS MONEY LOSS AT SMYRNA

Trading Quarter Consumed in Great Fire

Loss Falls to Great Extent Upon Foreigners

London, Sept. 16.—The commercial loss in Smyrna as a result of the great fire is enormous, all reports agree, and falls to a great extent upon foreigners.

Apparently the whole trading quarter was consumed with its immense stores of goods.

Members of British firms engaged in the Levantine trade say the results will be calamitous to them, while numbers of prosperous Greek and Armenian traders face ruin. The dried fruit, carpet, tobacco and cotton goods trades are among the worst sufferers, have been sunk in Smyrna and the surrounding districts.

PARTY TO REACH VANCOUVER TO-NIGHT

Montrealers and British M.P.'s Are Touring

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—The touring party of members of the Montreal Board of Trade and British Parliamentarians is to arrive in Vancouver on its special train at 8 o'clock this evening.

The party visited the Okanagan Valley yesterday.

A Pleasant Day
Vernon, B.C., Sept. 15.—Delighted with the day spent in the Okanagan Valley, the members of the Montreal Board of Trade and British Parliamentarians left here late Friday afternoon on their special train for Vancouver.

At Olympia the Women's Institute had prepared a luncheon.

Short addresses of welcome were given by J. A. Mackenzie, M. P. and W. E. McTaggart, president of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Okanagan, who presided. W. A. Birks, president of the Montreal Board of Trade, Sir Arthur Currie and Pemberton Smith replied on behalf of the Easterners, and Holman Gregory, K.C., M.P. for Derbyshire, spoke for the Britishers, while W. T. Heddie told of the pleasure it gave Olympia to entertain the party.

Saw Packing Houses
Later the visitors were driven by members of the Vernon Board of Trade along picturesque Long Lake to the Coldstream district. At Kelowna and Vernon stops were made at the packing houses and canneries.

Sir Edwin Courtenay, Deputy Speaker of the British House of Commons, declared the day the most wonderful he had experienced on the tour so far.

Just before the train pulled out R. W. Ley, secretary of the Vernon Amateur Athletic Association and a war veteran, presented to Lady De Flaugères a bouquet of flowers. She had been a daily visitor to the Bath War Hospital, where he was a patient after being wounded in France.

At Kelowna, Olympia and Vernon, Sir Arthur Currie was greeted by former comrades.

While Mr. King was the chief guest, the speakers included others outside of the Liberal Party.

SHE LINGERED TO COUNT
Fred had come upon Flora dozing on the sofa, and when she woke up she accused him of stealing a kiss.

"Well," said Fred, "I will admit that the temptation was too strong to be resisted. I did steal one little kiss."

"One!" exclaimed Flora, indignantly. "Why, I counted eight before I woke up!"

BRITISH TRADE MISSION HERE FROM AUSTRALIA

Touring World to Arouse Interest and Support For Great London Industrial Exposition, Party Headed By Major E. A. Belcher Arrives on S.S. Niagara.

The British trade delegation which is touring the world in the interests of the British Empire Exhibition to be held in London in 1924, was greeted in Victoria on the arrival of the Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara this afternoon.

The mission is headed by Major E. A. Belcher, C.B.E., M.A., and the party includes Mr. and Mrs. Hiam, Colonel A. Christie, C.M.G., D.S.O., manager of the Bank of England, and Mrs. Christie, and F. W. Bates, the manager's secretary.

The members of the mission are on a world tour to arouse interest in and support for the display of Empire industry now being prepared in London at Wembley Park, which will be opened in 1924.

To Speak Here.
The Exhibition mission anticipates meeting local business men with a view to securing their co-operation as exhibitors, but is more interested in explaining to the general public the objective aimed at by the Prince of Wales and his collaborators in organizing the display of Empire industry, and securing a world-wide pilgrimage to London.

To aid the mission in this under-taking, the Chamber of Commerce has been asked to arrange for the holding of public meetings which may be addressed by the distinguished visitors.

Welcomed At William Head.
A party of Victoria business men left the city early today for William Head, where they boarded the Niagara and extended the greetings to the visitors. The party included J. W. Spencer, president of the Chamber of Commerce; C. T. Cross, chairman of the reception committee; Capt. T. J. Goodlake, local secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; and H. Cuthbertson, representing the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce, who is also on this coast for the purpose of promoting trade within the Empire.

When the liner docked at Pier 2 Premier Oliver and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce met the visitors. This afternoon they will visit the various points of interest in and around the city and tomorrow they will be entertained at Butcher's Gardens.

On Monday the visitors will be the guests of the Provincial Government on a tour of inspection of some of the industries in the neighborhood.

Luncheon.
On Tuesday at noon a luncheon will be given at the Hudson's Bay restaurant in honor of the guests, at which, owing to the limited space, accommodation will be provided for seventy-five. Tickets may be secured at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce, Belmont Building. The party will make further investigations on this coast for the purpose of promoting trade within the Empire.

Hopes Canada Will Respond.
"Over the years, there has been a scientific effort to make a full survey of all the resources of the British Empire and to find means of putting them to the best use of all of us," said Major Belcher to the Times on arrival here.

The mission hopes that Canada will respond to the idea with the same enthusiasm that Australia is doing and that all portions of the Empire will join hands in making the 1924 British Trade Exhibition in London something that will have a lasting moral effect as well as serving to promote closer trade relations.

The mission will interview all Provincial Governments in Canada with a view to securing some sort of inter-provincial conference at the end of the mission to settle the final details of Canada's participation in the exhibition.

"The idea has caught the imagination of Australia and that country is making a magnificent response, due largely to their sense of vision as to the exhibition will mean for the extension of Australia's trade," said Major Belcher.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS
The ailments of childhood—constipation, indigestion, colic, colds, etc.—can be quickly banished through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which instantly regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They are guaranteed to contain no harmful drugs and can be given to the youngest baby with perfect safety.

Concerning Mrs. Alcide Lepage, who writes: "My baby, Guy, was a very healthy child, but he was very constipated and his bowels were very hard. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and he was cured in a few days. He is now a healthy, happy child."

PREMIER KING AT BIG PICNIC
Sharon, Ont., Sept. 15.—Premier King attended the annual celebration of the York Pioneers here today. The gathering was entirely non-political and took the form of a huge picnic here, where there is a permanent shrine to the memory of the pioneers and early religious pilgrims in that part of the constituency of North York, for which the Premier sits in the House of Commons.

While Mr. King was the chief guest, the speakers included others outside of the Liberal Party.

SHE LINGERED TO COUNT
Fred had come upon Flora dozing on the sofa, and when she woke up she accused him of stealing a kiss.

"Well," said Fred, "I will admit that the temptation was too strong to be resisted. I did steal one little kiss."

JURY URGES EXTRA NIGHT WATCHMAN

Verdict of Accidental Death Given in Morrow Inquest

That the late Albert Alexander Morrow, traveling salesman for a Vancouver firm, had come to his death as the result of injuries received accidentally was the verdict returned by a jury today at the inquest into the death of Morrow, who was killed by a car on the B. C. Funeral Piers, before Coroner E. C. Hart.

The jury added a rider in recommendation that an additional watchman be employed, so that both sides of the Johnson Street Bridge may be guarded at night. An efficient barricade should be erected also, urged the jury.

The main evidence at the inquest today was given by Walter W. Baer, who had been a companion of the late Mr. Morrow on the night in question. Baer had known Morrow for about six years, he stated, meeting him on Tuesday last and seeing him once at least every day until Thursday night.

On the night of Thursday last, witness picked Morrow up at Hall's Drug Store and went to his rooms in the Metropolis Hotel. There the two had stayed for the greater portion of an hour. The two had taken some drink in the hotel room, and later went down Johnson Street to the lower end, where Baer had entered the Salvation Army and Navy hostel for a few moments. When witness came out to the street again Morrow had disappeared. This was about 10:30 o'clock on the night in question.

Witness knew that Morrow had been drinking, but it was moderately, during the week. On the occasion in the hotel room the two men had conversed about very rapidly. Morrow was a very good natured, friendly man, witness stated. Morrow was to all appearances perfectly rational and sober when he last saw him on the night in question.

Witness did not know that he had been drinking only that witness was present when this was done.

Post Mortem.
Dr. John H. Miller, called next, stated he had conducted a post mortem examination of the remains which had "superficial wounds on the right side of the jaw, and in the left leg anteriorly. Witness noticed some surgical anti-calcium on the neck and the second to fifth ribs on the left side were fractured near the sternal junction." Witness said the tracks of the body bore no marks that might have been attributed to violence.

John P. Lee, assistant engineer of the City bridge work, was next called. At 10:30 a.m. on Friday morning he saw the body at the foot of a sand box shaft, two feet above high water mark. He notified the police.

In dealing with the evidence of the two officers, Le Chance and Ledoux, Magistrate Jay scored the former in connection with his evidence in which Le Chance said he had given Kershaw a drink, on the ground that he, the officer, "liked to do things with a certain amount of polish."

"Any man who knowingly supplied liquor to a licensed taxi driver is not fit to hold the office of a police officer," remarked the Court. The accused was then dismissed.

Miss Stirling was never in the lead and at the thirteenth was four down. She made a great try and won the next three holes, only to lose through some erratic putting on the seventeenth green.

LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD TO APPEAL

Third Acquittal Registered This Morning in Liquor Trials

Magistrate Scores Witness For Crown, in Connection With Case

The third of the prosecutions brought under the aegis of the Liquor Control Board followed the way of its fellows in the City Police court today when Magistrate Jay dismissed the accused, Jack Kershaw.

Kershaw had been charged with supplying a bottle of whisky to two police officers at the Empress Hotel, and R. C. Lowe for the Liquor Board.

To Appeal.
Mr. Lowe lodged notice of appeal at once, apparently having been prepared for an acquittal. This makes the second appeal to be taken by the Crown in the present series. The case of Lester Bayne, acquitted on Thursday on a like charge, will not be appealed it was stated today, but the trials of George W. Nicholson and Jack Kershaw will be taken to a higher court. The hearings may come on in the County Court in October.

In summing up the evidence for the Crown in this charge against Kershaw Magistrate Jay held that the alibi produced in respect to the check system, in which Kershaw as a driver was checked in and out at various hours on the night in question was nearly complete, and that the accused must be given the benefit of the doubt.

Witness Scored.
In dealing with the evidence of the two officers, Le Chance and Ledoux, Magistrate Jay scored the former in connection with his evidence in which Le Chance said he had given Kershaw a drink, on the ground that he, the officer, "liked to do things with a certain amount of polish."

"Any man who knowingly supplied liquor to a licensed taxi driver is not fit to hold the office of a police officer," remarked the Court. The accused was then dismissed.

Coroner to Jury.
In addressing the jury Coroner E. C. Hart pointed out he had inspected the scene of the fatality. The hole in the sidewalk was entirely covered by the conduits and it was possible for one to fall through at night. It would be impossible to see the hole in the sidewalk at night, with its many danger places unless a high steel fence were erected right around this was not practical, he stated.

The coroner pointed out that the death might have been caused by fall, and not by violence, as claimed by the speaker, and that the remainder of the evidence was clear. The jury retired and returned in ten minutes with the verdict stated.

Mr. Morrow was formerly well known in this city where he had acted as a clerk in Campbell's Drug Store. He was a quiet, well educated man and had a large circle of friends.

Near Eastern Tangle May Cause Special Session of Canadian Parliament

Smyrna No Longer Exists; Death and Misery

Sharon, Ont., Sept. 15.—(Canadian Press)—When advised of the announcement that Great Britain had invited Canada and other dominions to be represented by contingents in the British force participating in the defence of the neutral zone in the Near East today, Premier King refused to make a statement bearing on the situation.

"It is entirely a matter for the Cabinet of Canada," he said, "and for them to take whatever action they deem necessary."

The Cabinet will meet on Monday and it is very likely that the matter will be under discussion then. It is also possible that an extraordinary session of the Parliament of Canada will be called to deal with the crisis.

Smyrna.
Smyrna, Sept. 15.—Smyrna no longer exists. The fire, which has been raging for three days with unabated fury, has swept the city and is extending to the suburbs. Plan Immigration.
Following interviews yesterday and today with Sir John Milnes and his associates, Premier Oliver and his ministers are awaiting the return from London of the Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, to decide on the details of the immigration plans of this province.

Sir John, who is president of the newly formed Western Canada Colonization Association was accompanied in his interviews here by Brigadier-General H. McDonald, Vancouver; M. A. Brown, Medicine Hat, vice-president of the association; F. D. L. Smith, Eastern director, and H. Everett, St. Paul, general manager.

Premier Oliver told them that his Government welcomed any such organization whose aid was to get population on idle lands.

The objects of the company, Sir John said, were to transfer people from Canadian cities to the land and from one Province to another, as well as to bring in new settlers from Europe and the United States. He suggested that it might be possible for the Association to co-operate with the Government in the settling of lands along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Other things Sir John said were: The Association is purely a non-profit organization. Its work will be in full swing next Spring. Provincial Governments are being asked for no monetary assistance. Care of settlers after arrival will be looked after through a welfare organization to which the Imperial and Dominion Governments and the Association have advanced further in land settlement, whether along right lines or not, than the Prairie Provinces.

Sir John declared that the results of his interview with the Government were quite satisfactory.

With heavy fogs off Cape Flattery marrying an otherwise uneventful voyage, the Canadian-Australian liner Niagara made the William Head quarantine station about midday today, arriving at Pier 2 at 1:30 p.m.

The Niagara was within 300 miles of Cape Flattery at dinner time on Thursday evening, and with clear weather would have had an easy task in making port at daybreak today.

The Niagara brought a large passenger list, including many distinguished personalities. Among these is the British Empire Exhibition mission.

SAYS MORATORIUM PLAN A MISTAKE

Sir John Aird Opposes Prairie Farmers' Suggestion

Calgary, Sept. 16.—Canadian financiers see no reason why a moratorium should be declared in any of the prairie provinces now, and would look upon a moratorium as a misfortune to the country, declared Sir John Aird, of Toronto, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at present visiting in Calgary.

Sir John stated that conditions in Western Canada did not warrant a moratorium, that the banks were assisting the farmers with their loans, and that a moratorium would retard development, would keep out settlers and generally would have an adverse effect on the future development of Western Canada.

"We would like," Sir John said, "to see the farmers get a minimum price of $1 a bushel for their wheat. That would mean a selling price of around $1.25. However, the cost of the crop has not been so great as for previous crops. Labor has been less, machinery is a little lower, twine to-day costs less and general living expenses have been reduced. There will be a lot of money in the country and there is not going to be any such effort to extract the last dollar from the farmer as has been alleged."

"There have been charges made," Sir John continued, "that the banks have little of humanity in their dealings with debtors. That is not true." He pointed out that it was to the interest of the banks that business generally should be assisted rather than retarded, and he had not the slightest doubt that creditors of farmers would be entirely reasonable in their dealings and in their requests. A moratorium could scarcely fail to do more harm than good. It would retard credit and would hold back the flow of money from the other side.

Canada to Pay 775,000 Gold Francs a Year

Empire Insists Plan Be Only Provisional

London, Sept. 16.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Under a new scheme for the apportionment of the expenses of the League of Nations which takes into account factors like devastations and the difficulties of certain small states, says a Reuter dispatch from Geneva, Canada's share will be 775,000 gold francs; Great Britain, 2,100,000 gold francs; Australia, 576,000; India, 1,440,000; South Africa, 332,000, and New Zealand, 221,000.

The Earl of Balfour told the committee that Great Britain and the Dominions agreed to the extra levy on them, provided it was provisional, but reserved the right to divide their aggregate between them as they thought fit.

HAIG SPEAKS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Urges 120,000 Disabled Veterans in Britain Be Employed

London, Sept. 16.—Lord Haig, speaking in Manchester yesterday, pleaded the cause of the 120,000 disabled ex-service men who are still unemployed, and suggested that they should be distributed among employers who would pay them what they could earn and the Government should make up the deficiency in wages.

"I do insist upon these poor fellows being looked after for the rest of their lives," he declared.

Will the Injunction Break the Strike?

A conservative New York daily observes that if the Daugherty injunction against strike propaganda were literally enforced, every striker would be "doomed to a life of silent meditation and prayer." Since the popular reaction to the injunction obtained against striking railway men is likely to determine whether future officials will have recourse to it, it is of immense importance to show just where the press stand on it.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week (September 16) presents all shades of public opinion. Labor leaders feel that the injunction "denies them free speech and peaceful assembly," and puts the Government in the role of a strike-breaker, while railway executives feel that the Government has "gummed the works" just as they had the strike beaten.

The St. Louis Star and the Scranton Times agree that this injunction is a strike-breaking weapon, pure and simple, and the Indianapolis Union calls it "a highly dangerous precedent" which "can but in the end lead to deep resentment in the hearts of millions and to eventual Bolshevism, that is, hatred for the class favoring the injunction."

While many editors decry the injunction there are scores of others who feel that Attorney-General Daugherty was compelled to take just the action he did take.

The places of striking shopmen can be filled, but, we read in the Chicago Daily News, "burned bridges, wrecked trains, locomotives subjected to sabotage, peaceful workers beaten or killed—these prove the existence of active and widespread criminality." This leading feature-article in the "Digest" is illustrated by appropriate pictures.

Postal Strike Causes Inconvenience in Free State

Belfast, Sept. 16.—Two and one-half million letters from Canada, England and Australia remain undelivered in Dublin, due to the postal strike, it was learned here to-day. English mails which arrived yesterday are still on the Dublin railroad platform and are heavily guarded by Free State troops.

Men and women of the right character must be brought to Canada. Quality was more important than quantity. Careful control and supervision was necessary after settlement and the most complete co-operation must exist between the Provincial and Federal Governments and with Governments overseas if that was possible.

Thousands Will Come.

The Prime Minister referred to the work proposed by the Western Canada Colonization Association and said that this organization was working in co-operation with the British, Federal and Provincial Governments.

"I believe that in the course of the next few years, thousands of settlers will be placed on the land and that thousands of acres will be opened," he asserted.

Other statements made to the meeting by the Prime Minister were that Canada's revenues were increasing, that in an effort to widen Canadian markets, one of the Cabinet Ministers would shortly proceed to Australia to negotiate a reciprocal trade treaty, and that the removal of the British embargo on Canadian cattle before the New Year could be predicted.

Answer to Meighen.

The Prime Minister took advantage of the opportunity to reply to recent statements levelled against him by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader. The last election, he said, showed that the country was tired of "Toryism." In six of the nine provinces Mr. Meighen did not count a single supporter in Parliament. The East was Liberal and the West was Progressive. Mr. King said he would not have mentioned this if Mr. Meighen had not charged that the people had been "humbugged."

"I think," he declared, "that Mr. Meighen is leading the remnants of his party to defeat just as fast as he can by his continued policy of vituperation."

Liberals and Progressives.

Stressing the advisability of close co-operation, and even a union, between the Liberals and Progressives, Premier King declared that the dictionary showed the word "Liberal" to mean progressive, and the word "Progressive" to mean liberal. It was for this reason he had invited the Progressives to participate at the council board, and while the Progressives had not seen fit to take advantage of the opportunity, they had promised support. One session of Parliament had developed that the Progressives had nothing in common with the Conservatives, but, very much in common with the Liberals. It was better for men and women of broad thought to work together in the forces of democracy. His supreme aim would always be to unite those who stood for broad Liberal principles.

A BENEFICIAL TOUR.

If the members of the Montreal Board of Trade and the visiting British parliamentarians are really looking for information that will be of service to them and their respective countries after they shall have completed their pleasant jaunt, they will not have been disappointed in the pilgrimage so far. At one or two points on the itinerary which has been followed since the party set out a number of plain truths have been delivered with a sincere desire to inform. Straight to the point as most of them have been their reception has been equally genuine and the prospects of a better understanding between East and West and between the Motherland and this Dominion are in consequence proportionately enhanced.

The Vice-President of the Revelstoke Board of Trade has given the Montrealers to understand that British Columbia intends to continue to support Premier Oliver in his fight for fair play in the matter of freight rates. He dropped the gentle hint that if the more intensely populated part of Canada continued to consider it a profitable undertaking to dictate the policy of the country, and almost ignore the West, the day would come on which this particular idea would be laid to rest for all time—with the possibility of the West getting a little bit of its own back. This same official similarly informed the visitors from the other side of the Atlantic that American and not British money will be responsible for the establishment of Southern British Columbia's new pulp mill. These were conditions which did not harmonize with an important conception of Empire development.

While these matters were dealt with in a semi-humorous vein the party will not have overlooked their significance. The very fact that such an important body as the Montreal Board of Trade should have undertaken the arrangements for this unique tour augurs well for a realization of a more intimate and mutually profitable understanding between the East and the West and between the Motherland and this part of the British Commonwealth. Nor will any member of the party object to plain facts. His quest is obviously a serious one. A holiday jaunt could have been undertaken with less ostentation and with more freedom and pleasure than is possible when it is necessary to keep one eye on a time schedule and the other on the scenery, as it were.

MARKING TIME.

During the next forty-eight hours it should be possible to learn to what extent the attitude of the Turkish Nationalists is likely to involve the British Empire and her associates. As matters stand at the moment Great Britain intends to resist any attempt to seize Constantinople and to dispute the crossing of Turkish troops from the shores of Asia Minor to the European side. This much has been made clear to the Kemalists and confirmation of Britain's word would quickly follow the overt act.

The gravity of the situation will be readily understood from the fact that the British Government has invited the Dominions to send contingents to the scene. On the other hand there will be no feverish mobilization order without something more to justify it than a Turkish victory over Greece. An active challenge from a Turkish-Russian combination might strike terror into the heart of war-weary Europe. It is doubtful if this will materialize.

HIS HYMN OF HATE.

If the average reader of The Seattle Post-Intelligencer in Victoria were to let himself go and get really angry at the All-Hearst editorial on the Kipling incident which appeared on its front page yesterday he might feel inclined to allow his wrath to become too embracing. But he will remember that the owner of the chain of newspapers which includes the journal to which we have referred is a champion of hate against Britain and everything British. He does not represent American thought any more than his newspapers represent the more influential sentiment of his country. Here is a fair sample of his latest insult to the intelligence of our good friends across the line:

The plain facts are that the average Englishman and Frenchman, too, for that matter, know that we saved their countries in the late war, but deeply resent the fact that they had to depend upon us for their salvation, and therefore hate us, not merely because we saved them, but because they had to be saved.

Were it not so amusing an outburst of this kind might be really harmful to the excellent relations which are bringing the United States and the British Empire closer together in respect of those questions in which they are expected to give the world a lead. It goes without saying that there will be differences of opinion between the two countries. Relations are especially privileged to talk back to one another. But as soon as the family finds itself called upon to defend its honor the domestic dispute is forgotten. They fought side by side in Europe because there was no way to escape it without inviting consequences that neither cared to contemplate. But when the United States joined her friends in Europe Mr. Hearst lost his chance of winning a Prussian decoration in recognition of his services towards the defeat of Civilization.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

We are informed by one of our correspondents that the "Government did not weigh the question in the moral and economic scales" when it consented to submit a plebiscite to the people of this Province in respect of British Columbia's liquor business.

The communication containing this assertion does not explain just what course the Government should have taken to avoid the criticism referred to. It was patent to every school of thought in British Columbia that the Prohibition Act had failed to win sufficient support from the people as a whole to make its enforcement a success. The files of any provincial newspaper during the last two years of its operation contain sufficient proof of this condition. On this account we fail to see what other course the Government could have taken except that of asking the people for fresh instructions. The Legislature authorized this course and approved the nature of the appeal.

The law that is now on the statute books represents the will of a majority of the people in British Columbia. To argue that it is morally and economically wrong is beside the question. How long would any Government last which deliberately ignored majority sentiment? Is it quite honest on the part of a minority to condemn the Administration because it has followed the specific instructions of the people—specific in the matter of taking the plebiscite in recognition of conditions which then existed, and specific in respect of the law itself because the Liquor Control Act is the work of the Legislature as a whole.

To suggest that the Government is pushing the sale of liquor for all it is worth will not bear analysis. Our correspondent must know that the daily turnover at the official vending establishments is regulated solely by popular demand and permitted by popular authority.

STARTING RIGHT.

If next year's Empire Week revels do not surpass anything ever before attempted in this Province it will not be the fault of those who are giving their time and patience to the study of all the multifarious detail that one associates with an event of this sort. It must be recognized that no celebration of the kind proposed can be arranged in a week or a month. It requires constant work if new ideas are to be developed and the thing made a success. But no amount of labor expended by an army of energetic citizens will be rewarded to the fullest extent unless every ounce of public support shall be guaranteed. Victoria's geographical position and Nature's lavish endowment of a setting unparalleled can be made to pay big dividends if co-operative effort will utilize them. The Committee should be able to count upon all the assistance it requires for the development of its plans.

OUR BILL ON BERLIN.

We are informed from London that good progress has been made in negotiations for settlement of Germany's indebtedness to this country. Equally solemn is the suggestion that the main point to be disposed of is whether Canada will grant time for payments. Our understanding of the position of the debtor country is that the last thing she is likely to do is to pay her bills. Of course it is comforting from a bookkeeping point of view to learn that there is a prospect of settlement. But what will happen if Canada does not choose to be lenient with her former enemy? Is there any suggestion that a troop of Royal Canadian Mounted Police should occupy a couple of streets in Berlin and exact penalties?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Smyrna is a fundamental reason why the Turk must be kept in his place. He may be a good fighter in the field; but his notions of government belong to the middle ages.

With everybody talking about the Canada Colonization Association's plan for populating this Dominion's virgin areas there should soon be a steady movement across the Atlantic and from the country to the South.

Dr. King's address at yesterday's luncheon revealed a comprehensive understanding of Canada's needs and served to remind Victorians that the Premier of this country made no mistake when he selected his Minister of Public Works.

With Great Britain, France and Italy in agreement in respect of what Mustafa Kemal Pasha may and may not do it is more than likely that the Nationalist leader will drive a good bargain with his present advantage and not lose his head.

N. CHAMBERLAIN COMING

 We shall go on to Toronto, where I hope to see something of the business community. A visit to Niagara is, of course, indispensable, and we shall then start for the West, breaking our journey probably at Winnipeg and Banff if time permits.

"I am anxious to go on to Victoria, B.C., and on the return journey to spend a day or two at Calgary and possibly at Edmonton. At Ottawa, where I have a number of introductions, I expect to stay for some days, getting back to Montreal towards end of October."

"Then I expect to proceed to Boston to spend a few days with my American relatives and friends, returning to England from New York in beginning of November."

"Although my time is short I expect to learn a great deal about Canada, and in particular to obtain first hand information about the prospects of British trade with, and British immigration to the Dominion."

"Such information cannot fail to be of the greatest value to any member of Parliament and naturally the subject is one of overwhelming interest to my father's son."

LIBERALS GREET HON. J. H. KING

Hearty Reception for Minister of Public Works Plans Made for Forthcoming Nelson Convention

Repeated cheers greeted Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, when he addressed a crowded meeting of Liberals at the Liberal Club last evening.

"It is fortunate that the Liberals have decided to hold a convention, and I am satisfied that when they gather together and review the history of the Liberal Government during the past five years they will pass a resolution of appreciation to Hon. John Oliver and his government for the excellent and faithful service they have rendered to British Columbia," said Dr. King.

The speaker urged the Association to send a full delegation to the Nelson convention.

Problems to Overcome.
 There are great problems in the West, which it will require the best judgment of the Ottawa Government and I have now under consideration some suggestions which will, if carried out, mean a great deal to the Western Provinces," said Dr. King.

Virtue Party.
 A strong virtue Liberal Party will be built up in the West and the administration of Mr. Mackenzie King will prove itself one of the best Canada has ever had.

The National railways of Canada constitute a heavy responsibility, and if we are to make them pay we must build up the West, where we have great resources, which are of very little use unless we have people to develop them.

Immigration Policy.
 An immigration policy will be carried out by the Government which will result in prosperity and progress, said Dr. King, who appealed for support of the people in making Western Canada what it ought to be. The speaker referred to the era of prosperity which Canada enjoyed during the former Liberal administration.

Premier's Tribute.
 "I have a very high sense of appreciation of Dr. King's services both as a Minister of the Provincial Government and as Minister of Public Works in the Federal House," said Premier Oliver, who was accorded a very hearty reception when he arose to speak.

Speaking of the Liberal Convention to be held in Nelson on September 28 and 29, Premier Oliver said that this would be an important epoch in the history of Liberalism in British Columbia.

Delegates should go to that convention with an intelligent mind and prepared to assist in laying down a programme of progress and development.

Land Policy.
 The success of the Liberal Government's land policy was emphasized by the Premier, who pointed out the necessity of getting proper settlers on the lands of the Province.

The speaker referred to the general movement set on foot by wealthy interests in this country and the Old Country aimed at the promotion of land settlement.

Legislation.
 "The Liberal Government of British Columbia has put more beneficial legislation on the statute books during its short term of office than all the other Governments of Canada combined," said the speaker.

Premier Oliver expressed the hope that the Liberal Convention would not be afflicted with any of the evils with which the Conservative Convention in Vancouver was blessed. He said that the qualifications of the delegates to the Conservative Convention seemed to be limited to the number of twenty dollar bills that were presented as membership fees.

"When you go to the Nelson convention see that you choose delegates who will give the best to the problems of British Columbia," concluded Premier Oliver.

Finance Minister.
 Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, said that the courtesy and assistance of Hon. J. H. King extended in Ottawa to the delegation which he headed from Victoria to secure the construction of the Esquimalt drydock was greatly appreciated. The development of the Pacific Coast is of paramount importance, and the only logical situation for the drydock which was essential to the promotion of trade and shipping on the Pacific was at Esquimalt, said Mr. Hart, who spoke in a happy and optimistic vein regarding the future of British Columbia.

William McK. Ivel, Liberal candidate in the last Federal election, complimented the association on having such a large turnout at the first Fall meeting.

He said it was a matter of congratulation that Victoria had Hon. Dr. King at Ottawa as Minister of Public Works at a time when the fight for the drydock was on.

Had it not been for the fact that a sympathetic Minister of Public Works held office at Ottawa the drydock might not now be under construction at Esquimalt.

Canada's development would in future be centred mostly on the Pacific Coast, Mr. Ivel said.

Nelson Delegates.
 The delegates elected at last night's meeting of the Victoria and District Liberal Association to attend the Liberal Convention to be held in Nelson on September 28 and 29 are as follows:

One—C. F. Banfield, Dr. Lewis Hall, and Messrs. T. Brown, P. Steele, J. Painter, O. Herman, G. Creed and J. Smith.
 Ward Two—Capt. M. D. Harbord, W. Lemm, J. Wallace, A. R. McGregor, Mrs. Paul, R. Dinsdale, G. Rae and Mr. Savory.
 Ward Three—Messrs. Laing, Herd and Galbraith, Messrs. Thos. Walker, F. Carlow, S. Herd, Colonel Winsby and Thos. Watson, Sr.
 Ward Four—Messrs. Carey Martin, F. E. Heath, Cecil Hall, R. Hetherington, A. McNiven, H. C. Hall, K. C. Wm. McK. Ivel and Archie Aiken.
 Ward Five—Mrs. W. F. Povah, Messrs. Arthur Cox, H. W. Goggin, A. W. Staples, J. W. Speck, J. A. Shanks, J. Sheppard and W. F. Povah.

 effort should be maintained to secure a stable peace with Turkey, is the British viewpoint. Great Britain holds, however, that such a conflict cannot embark upon its labors, still less carry them through with the slightest prospect of success, while there is any of the Kemalists troops attacking neutral zones.

Grave Situation.
 The reappearance of the victorious Turk on the European shore would, it is held, provoke a situation of the gravest character throughout the Balkans and very likely lead to bloodshed on a large scale in regions already cruelly devastated.

The British Government maintains that it is the duty of the Allies of the late war to prevent this great danger and secure order and peaceful conditions in and around the straits, thus allowing a conference to conduct its deliberations with dignity and efficiency and so reach a permanent settlement.

Ready To Take Share.
 Great Britain is prepared to bear her part in this matter, it is stated, and make every possible effort for a satisfactory solution. She has addressed herself in this sense to other great powers with whom she has been acting and who jointly with her are associated in the defence of Constantinople and the neutral zone.

It is pointed out as clear, however, that the other Allied Powers of the Balkan Peninsula are also vitally affected. Rumania, it is noted, was brought to her ruin in the Great War by the strangulation of the straits. The union of Turkey and Bulgaria would be productive of deadly consequences to Serbia in particular and Jugoslavia as a whole. It is argued, while the whole trade of the Danube flowing into the Black Sea is likewise subject to strangulation if the straits are closed. The engagement of Greek interests in the Suez is also pointed to as self-evident.

DISARMAMENT GROUP OF LEAGUE AT A DEADLOCK

Geneva, Sept. 16.—The Disarmament Committee of the League of Nations, which is considering Lord Robert Cecil's disarmament plan, reached a deadlock to-day when it came to draft the fourth paragraph of the project.

M. de Jouvenal demanded that a provision be inserted to the effect that the disarmament should be to an extent proportionate to the security provided by the guarantee pact.

C.P.R. SOCIAL CLUB ARRANGE OPENING BALL

Initial Social Event of Club's Season Set for Sept. 28

All arrangements for the opening ball of the C. P. R. Social and Athletic Club's season have been completed. The Empress Hotel ballroom has recently been renovated and painted throughout, and on September 28 the public will have the opportunity of dancing from 9 to 2 o'clock amid the new surroundings.
When it is stated that the music will be supplied by Prof. Ozard and his seven-piece orchestra, it will be guaranteed enough that the music will be unequaled.

The committee have been very energetic and have left no stone unturned to insure their patrons every better time than last year. The tickets are now on sale and can be had from various members of the club, and at the C. P. R. ticket office Government Street and at the Wharf. Buffet supper will be arranged by the Empress Hotel staff. A large number of tickets have already been disposed of, and it is urged that those intending to be present should make sure of their tickets as there will be none sold at the door.

The dancing committee hope to have the invitations to the popular social dances out during next week. The dances are also to be held in the Empress ballroom every second Thursday, commencing October 12. Admission is strictly by invitation, and last year's patrons are strongly advised to get their names on the list as soon as possible and so save disappointment. Prof. Ozard and his five-piece orchestra is engaged for these dances also.

The dances are not to have it all their own way, however, as the card committee, with the genial chairman, Jack Belanger, at the head, have been busy lately. Their first card game, a military 500, will take place Thursday evening September 21, play commencing at 8:15 prompt. The enthusiasts who attend these games praise the delightful games, good prizes and sociable company amid the very best surroundings at the private dining room at the Empress, where the first game this year will again be played.

The C. P. R. Club has every reason to be proud of its dance and card committees, who devote time and energy in carrying out their various duties and bringing off so successful events.

VICTORIA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE PLANS

Will Open Lunch Room at Fall Fair Next Week

That the exhibition and bazaar held under the auspices of the Victoria W. I. last week was an unqualified success was proved conclusively by the report given at the regular monthly meeting held yesterday. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Lady Barnard, Misses Ella Fottinger, Ida Richards, Stella Burton, Miss C. Daniels, Mrs. C. Bur-don-Murphy, Mrs. McVickers, Miss Dennis Harris, Miss Stevenson,
Messrs. George Guy, Jack Pullen, P.
Merryfield the Lake Hill W. I. and the West Saanich Institute for their generous assistance at the bazaar and concert.

The coming month promises to be an exceedingly busy one for the Institute. Next week they will conduct a lunch room at the Fall Fair, for which the following committees were appointed: General convener, Mrs. H. Crocker; general secretary,
Mrs. W. D. Todd; Monday, Mrs.
Colby; Tuesday, Mrs. Stephen and Mrs. Bail-lies; Thursday, Mrs. Crocker and Mrs. Todd; Friday, Mrs. Black; Saturday, Mrs. Robinson.

Mr. L. Campbell and Mrs. L.
Schultz reported the Institute exhibit all in readiness. Mrs. H. Norris reported visiting the art gallery and also gave her report as delegate to the local council of Women.
Some discussion took place on the advantage of putting up a woman nominee for the forthcoming civic elections.

A splendid report on "Agriculture" by Mrs. Savory, convener of agricultural committee, was given by Mrs. J. W. Gordon. Her report gave for the limited farming on the Island the isolated position and limited market. Members were urged to buy home produce more extensively.
It was also pointed out that the opening of the railroad to Sooke would prove of great value to the farmers of that district.

It was decided that the Victoria W.
I. would entertain the delegates to the Islands District Conference of Women's Institutes in October to a luncheon, as they did last year.

At the conclusion of the business afternoon tea was served by Mrs.
Bailles, Mrs. Bloor, Mrs. W. Peden and Mrs. Nicholson.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB

On Tuesday afternoon next the Women's Canadian Club will hold their regular meeting, the speaker for the afternoon being Miss Ethel Johns, director of nursing for Vancouver General Hospital. Miss Johns will take as her subject "Women in a Changing World." The subject is one which is full of import at the present time, and Miss Johns is particularly suited to discuss subjects coming to her wide insight into the question from a social, educational and economic standpoint.
Miss Butterfield has kindly consented to sing. The meeting, which commences at 2:15, will be held in the Empress ballroom.

How do you happen to have so much money this morning?
Went to the races yesterday.
And bet on a winner?
Nope; didn't bet at all!

DIOCESAN BOARD W. A. MEETING

Interesting Reports Heard at St. Michael's, Royal Oak

The monthly Diocesan Board meeting was held at St. Michael's, Royal Oak, with eighty-three members present. After the opening hymn and prayers by the president, Mrs. A. G.
Jackson, gave a hearty welcome in the name of St. Michael's W. A. Before commencing reports Mrs. Bolton spoke of the absence of the recording secretary, Mrs. Bishop, on account of the illness of her husband, and a standing vote of sympathy was passed. The minutes of the meeting were taken by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. C. J. Walker. Reports were given by the various officers, which showed progress in the different departments of the organization.

The afternoon session was taken up with three addresses, the first being given by Principal Vance, of the Theological College, who gave a stirring account of the work being undertaken at the college. He hoped for an increase of young men of the right kind to train for this noble work, and put this appeal especially to the mothers.
Miss Nettie, who has been matron at The Hotel, Dawson City, but who had to retire for a while on account of ill-health, gave a very interesting account of her work there. Miss Brown, who has been accepted as a candidate in the Deaconess Training School in Toronto, also gave a short address, outlining the work she has taken up. The meeting then closed, after passing a hearty vote of thanks to the W. A. of St. Michael's for delicious refreshments, and to the gentlemen who had kindly lent their motor cars for transportation.

CEREMONIES MARK SCHOOL OPENING

Pretty Exercises Are Held By Pupils and Prizes Awarded

Fall opening ceremonies were held at a number of the public schools yesterday. Large numbers of parents and former pupils were interested spectators at the pretty ceremonies arranged.

At the Margaret Jenkins School, Davis M. Carey was presented with the prize which Mrs. Jenkins annually awards for the First Division pupil standing highest in the entrance class. Mrs. Jenkins also presented the manual training and domestic science diplomas and High School certificates were presented by Major J. W. Clark, who spoke on his recent trip around the world. Mrs. Jenkins addressed the graduating class briefly. Robert Mees, Mary Langley, Freda Wheaton, Marjory Huike and Sarah Blackwell participated in a delightful pupils' programme of songs and recitations. The pupils presented a play, "The Boy Who Cried Wolf," and a beautiful bouquet of asters.

George Jay, chairman of the School Board, presented diplomas at the school which bears his name. He also presented to John Macdonald a volume of Shakespeare's works in accordance with his annual custom of awarding a prize to the pupil who heads the list of entrants from George Jay School in the High School examinations. Rev. William Stevenson presented proficiency and deportment certificates and rolls of honor.
Mrs. J. G. Gordon, Rev. A. de B.
Owen, Mrs. Christie and Trustee Mrs.
Andrews were the speakers at the South Park School opening exercises.
The auditorium of the North Ward School was beautifully decorated with Fall leaves for the opening exercises. H. W. Edwards, president of the High School Parent-Teachers' Association, presented diplomas to the boys and Mrs. Edwardson to the girls. Trustee Thomas Walker spoke briefly. Under the direction of Miss McKillop the pupils sang "O Canada" and a number of school songs. J. M. Campbell, principal of the school, presided.

Stooping and touching the soil of England as one might bend and touch a beloved face. That was what England for years had meant to him.
And now . . . It was upon these emotions, vaguely, "in case," that he had gone to Doctor Anderson on the morning of the frightful news. Anderson had told him he couldn't possibly be passed for the Army, but at the moment the idea of ever wanting to go into the Army had only been an almost ridiculously remote contingency, and what did Anderson know about the Army standard, anyway?

He said nothing to Mabel of his intention. It was just precisely the sort of thing he could not possibly discuss with Mabel. Mabel would say, "Whyever should you?" and of all imaginable ordeals the idea of exposing before Mabel his feeling about England . . . he would tell her when it was done, if it came off.
He could say then, in what he knew to be the clumsy way in which he had learnt to hide his ideas from her, he could say, "Well, I had to." And his thought was, when a few hours later he was walking slowly away from his interview with Major Harnshaw, the doctor at the barracks.
"Thank God, I never said anything to Mabel about it."

The very few officers left behind at the depot were at breakfast when he arrived to keep Colonel Rattray to his word. Major Earnshaw had very pleasantly got up from the table to get him outside the door of the mess and then without formality and had "a go at this heart of yours" in the billiard room. Withdrawn his stethoscope and shaken his head. It was "no go; absolutely none. Sorry."
"Well, but that's for a commission.
I'll go into the ranks. Isn't that any different?"

No different. "You can't possibly go in as you are now. In time, if this thing goes on, the standards will probably be reduced. But they'll have to be reduced a goodish long way before you'll get in, I don't mind telling you."

Sabre wheeled his bicycle slowly away across the barracks square.
"Thank goodness, I never said anything to Mabel about it." A cluster of young men of various degrees of from "swallowtail" to "dandy" were in the recruiting office. The rush of the first few days was thinning down but recruits were still pouring in. They were all laughing and talking about it. He had the wish that he could take the thing in that spirit. Why couldn't he? After all, what did it really matter that he was not able to get "in it"? Even if he had been accepted it would only have been pretending. He never would have got really "in it." Sabre said that he would, every one knew the war couldn't last long; it would be over long before any of these recruits could be trained.

This "common sense" argument carried him through following days;
then came another of the frightful undolings of his emotions; and just as the war definitely began for him with the glimpse of the beginnings of that "amiraglio" in the mess, so continually and increasingly, and with shocking effect upon his sensitiveness, dreadful oppression by the war would, adding to its darkness, a gnawing and unreasonable self-accusation that he was not "in it."

The occasion was that to his meeting with Harnshaw outside the County Times office. Harnshaw was a captain who had been left behind owing to some illness. The British Expeditionary Force had been in action.
There had been scraps of news of some heavy fighting. Harnshaw said duty. "Hullo, Sabre. I've just been in to see that chap Pike to see if he'd got anything. We've had some news, you know." He stopped. His face was twitching.

Sabre said, "News? Anything about the Pinks?" He seemed to be swallowing. "They're said. Yes, the regiment. Pretty bad." Sabre said, "Any one?" and also stopped.

Harnshaw looked, not at Sabre, but straight across the top of his head and began an appalling, and as it seemed to Sabre an endless recita-

Consequences of a Change of Climate

DIAGRAM OF LIFE IN THE LATER PALAEOZOIC AGE

Life is creeping out of the water. An insect like a dragon-fly is shown. There were amphibia like gigantic newts and salamanders, and even primitive reptiles, in these swamps.

It follows from the fact that living things grow and breed and die that every species, so long as the conditions under which it lives remain the same, becomes more and more perfectly fitted to those conditions in every generation.

But now suppose these conditions change, then the sort of individual that used to succeed may now fail to succeed and a sort of individual that could not get on at all under the old conditions may now find its opportunity. These species will change therefore, generation by generation; the old sort of individual that used to die out and the new sort of individual will become the rule—until the general character of the species changes.

FUR COATS AND LUCK.

Suppose, for example, there is some little furry white-brown animal living in a bitterly cold land which is usually under snow. Such individuals as have the thickest, whitest fur will be least hurt by the cold, less seen by their enemies, and less conspicuous as they seek their prey. The fur of this species will thicken and its whiteness increases with every generation, until there is no advantage in carrying any more fur.

Imagine now the range of climate that brings warmth into the land, sweeps away the snow, makes white creatures part of the year and thick fur an incubance. Then every individual with a touch of brown in its coloring and a thinner fur will find itself at an advantage, and every white and heavy fur will be a handicap. There will be a weeding out of the white in favor of the brown in each generation.

If this change of climate comes about too quickly, it may of course exterminate the species altogether; but if it comes about gradually, the species, although it may have a hard time, may yet be able to change itself and adapt itself generation by generation. This change and adaptation is called the modification of species.

Perhaps this change of climate does not occur all over the lands inhabited by the species; maybe it occurs only on one side of some great arm of the sea or some great mountain range or such-like divide, and not on the other.

A warm ocean current like the Gulf Stream may be deflected, and flow so as to warm one side of the barrier, leaving the other still cold. Then on the cold side this species will still be going on to its utmost possible furri-ness and whiteness and on the other side it will be modifying toward brownness and a thinner coat.

At the same time there will probably be other changes going on—a difference in the paws perhaps, because one-half of the species will be frequently scratching through snow for its food, while the other will be scampering over brown earth.

CHANGES THAT MAKE NEW CREATURES

Probably also the difference of climate will mean differences in the sort of food available, and that may produce differences in the teeth and the digestive organs. And there may be changes in the sweat and oil glands of the skin due to the changes in the fur, and these will affect the excretory organs and all the internal chemistry of the body.

And so through all the structure of the creature. A time will come when the two separated varieties of this formerly single species will become so unlike each other as to be recognizably different species. Such a splitting up of a species in the course of generations into two or more species is called the differentiation of species.

And it should be clear to the reader that given these elemental facts of life, given growth and death and reproduction with individual variation in a world that changes, life must change in this way, modification and differentiation must occur, old species must disappear, and new ones appear. We have chosen for our illustration here a familiar sort of animal, but what is true of furry beasts in snow and ice is true of all life, and equally true of the soft jellies and simple beginnings that flowed and crawled for hundreds of millions of years between the tidal levels and in the shallow, warm waters of the protozoic seas.

The early life of the early world, when the blazing sun rose and set in only a quarter of the time it now takes, when the warm seas poured in great tides over the sandy and muddy shores of the rocky lands and the air was full of clouds and steam, must have been modified and varied and species must have developed at a great pace.

WHEN LIFE WAS A MATTER OF HOURS.

Life was probably as swift and short as the days and years; the generations, which natural selection picked over, followed one another in rapid succession.

LIFE IN LATER PALAEOZOIC AGE
Natural selection is a slower process with man than with any other creature. It takes twenty years or more before an ordinary human being in western Europe grows up and reproduces. In the case of most animals the new generation is on trial in a year or less. With such simple and lowly beings, however, as first appeared in the primordial seas, growth and reproduction was probably a matter of a few brief hours or even of a few brief minutes. Modification and differentiation of species must accordingly have been extremely rapid, and life had already developed a great variety of widely contrasted forms before it began to leave traces in the rocks.

BROOM CARNIVAL HOLIDAY PLANNED

Plans Maturing Now for May 24, 1923; Public Will Be Consulted

At a meeting of the Victoria Day Celebration Committee held last night with Alderman Harvey in the chair the name of the May 24 annual holiday was officially designated as the "Victoria Broom and Water Carnival." The winner of the contest to determine the name, Peter Campbell, a Third Year Reader pupil at the Central School, was awarded the prize of $10 for this event. As the name now implies the holiday will feature broom parades and water sports throughout the festival.

The committee plan to make the Broom Carnival what the Rose Festival is to Portland, an annual civic exhibition that attracts many thousands. Already preparations are under way for the event to be held in May, 1923, an augury of success that was absent in other years.

The holiday will comprise four days of entertainment, of a wide and varied nature, commencing with an Old Boys' re-union and ball, when former Victorians will return to renew old associations. The second day will be a regatta on a larger scale than previously attempted. The Broom Festival and parade will take place on the third day, it is decided, with the final day being given to sports and merry exhibitions at the Willows and fire works at night. Altogether the committee plan to make the carnival an annual function that will be a great attraction.

FAMILY HEARING

STOPPED BY COURT

Mr. Justice Gregory Persuades Principals to Attempt Private Settlement

At the close of the hearing of evidence for the plaintiff, cited in these columns yesterday, in the suit of Finnelly versus Brassard, Mr. Justice Gregory stopped the hearing to again ask counsel to arrange a settlement out of court. After some brief discussion privately, both parties agreed to attempt such an understanding and were empowered by their respective clients to act for them.

The principals of the action, Michael Finnelly, plaintiff, and George Brassard, his son-in-law, agreed to abide by any settlement reached through counsel. Mr. Justice Gregory, again expressed himself as much opposed to the airing of family squabbles in court, which led only to further estrangements, he held. A. D. Crosse for the plaintiff and Ernest Miller for the defendant will confer and report back to the court on Wednesday next, the result of their deliberations. The suit is taken by plaintiff in the Supreme Court for recovery of a sum of money, upwards of $1,500, claimed to have been borrowed and unreturned by the defendant.

GREAT APPLE CROP MACDONALD SAYS

Okanagan this season is shipping between 5,000 and 6,000 freight carloads of fruit, according to Dr. K. C. Macdonald, M. P. for North Okanagan, who was at the Parliament Buildings yesterday conferring with Premier Oliver and other Ministers on Government business for his constituency.

The only thing the Okanagan producers are now worrying about their record crop is what they will be able to get for it, he declared. All the big apple districts have tremendous crops this year, Dr. Macdonald said. This situation is forcing down prices. Wenatchee alone has a crop of 1,400 cars, he explained, and the trouble the producers there are having is that the crop is so big that they will have difficulty in getting it distributed in time. Just now they are up against the problem of finding an immediate outlet for 7,000 cars. People on the Canadian prairies are getting the advantage of this glut of fruit as American producers are loading in their surplus which has to be marketed before the cold weather sets in.

The Prevailing Mode for 1922

Near and Far East influences are apparent features of the new Fashions for Fall.

Low waist, narrow hips, straight lines; a distinctly new silhouette. This is the way one might sum up the New Fashions.

Pile Fabrics are Favored for the Exclusive Fur-Trimmed Coats

Collars and sleeves are the important parts of the Fur-Trimmed Coats. Pockets are inconspicuous while fur is used to an unusual degree. The general lines are simple and each garment depends on its superb fabrics, and fur trimmings for its beauty.

Here you will find models of Velour, Normandy Cloth, Bolivia Cloth, Snedine, Ververette and others. Colors include navy, mallard blue, black and brown. Fur collars and cuffs, bands at the foot or down the front are of mole, beaver, opossum, seal, beaverine and skunk. You can purchase a Fur-Trimmed Coat as low as $29.50 or a more exclusive one as high as $115.00.

Coats of the Plainer Type for Tourist or Sports Wear

Various Styles Are Here

Cape-Back or Box-Style Jackets are still good style. Whether you like a knee or hip-length jacket you will find our display interesting.

COMING
AGAIN

Did you merely cut the top off?
And is the ROOT STILL THERE?
If it is, the corn will certainly come back bigger than ever. The business end of a corn is the ROOT and you must get that
OUT. The top doesn't matter.

A good handful of Raudal or 30 Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap.
Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers, and out it will come, root and all. The refined Raudal Bath Saltrates cost very little, and everybody has it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

RESTORER RETURNS.

The cable ship Restorer last night returned from Vancouver, where she has been bunkering, and resumed her anchorage in Esquimalt Harbor.

SAILS ON SUNDAY.

The Admiral liner Ruth Alexander will sail from the Outer Docks for California ports at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, carrying a full list of passengers. She will pick up 30 passengers on her call at this port.

parched. I've just had a letter from

NEW ORLEANS

LOSS $5,000,000

Wharves and Warehouses Destroyed by Fire

Forty Loaded Box Cars Were Burned

New Orleans, La., Sept. 16.—A loss estimated to be in excess of $5,000,000 was caused here last night when five blocks of wharves and warehouses along the Mississippi River front burned to the water's edge. The wharves and warehouses were erected by the Federal Government in 1918 and 1919 at a cost of more than $5-600,000, army officers said.
In addition to the warehouses and wharves, about forty box cars loaded with commodities were destroyed.
The German freight steamer Eliza Hugo Stinnes, moored to the wharf, caught fire but succeeded in putting into the river before serious damage was done. Second Officer Schall and Machinist Junter, of the German vessel, leaped overboard, according to sailors of the Eliza Hugo Stinnes, and Schall suffered a broken leg.
Three Government launches moored to the wharf were destroyed.
No cause for the fire had been announced by fire department officials this morning.

RAILWAY COMMISSION

ARRIVES SUNDAY

Hon. F. B. Carvell and other members of the Railway Commission are expected to arrive in Victoria to-morrow from Prince Rupert. There are a number of local questions which will be laid before the Commission for rulings.
The Empress Hotel will be headquarters for the Commission during their stay in Victoria.

Ballantyne Pier at Vancouver Too Short for Modern Shipping Conditions

An important fact in shiphandling economy, as affecting docks and wharves, is the average length of freight steamers, which has increased since pre-war days.
"Harbour and Shipping" points out that it is interesting to note that exactly 50 ships have berthed at the Government Elevator, Vancouver, for the purpose of loading wheat in the period from January 1 to June 30. According to a record kept by the Harbour Master, the average length of these vessels was 442 feet, the shortest being the steamer
"Merchandise," 350 feet in length, and the motor vessel "Lech Katrine," 505 feet.
The length of the Government Wharf at Vancouver is 800 feet, and the factor of length used by its designers being 400 feet per vessel, the wharf being designed for two berths per side. This factor is entirely in accordance with present day conditions, and the average overhang necessary on the ships berthing there at the present time is 42 feet per vessel making 84 feet for each side of the wharf.
In many cases, of course, the overhang is much greater than this, especially when two longer vessels than average are berthing at the same time.
Ballantyne Pier
Announcement of the fact that the designers of the new Ballantyne Pier now under construction, the length of which is to be 1,200 feet. This pier is presently designed as a three-berth side pier, whereas the above figures show that with three ships of average length, there would be an overhang of 125 feet. These figures should be taken into account by the builders of docks and wharves, as it is obvious that changing conditions must be taken into consideration.
The class of vessel, which has loaded wheat at Vancouver is by no means exceptional; the 40 ships comprising the old freight and bulk-freighters, and the new modern type of freight carrier.
Therefore the average is a fairly good working guide. It would be interesting to enquire why the designers of the Ballantyne Pier have adopted the 400-foot length factor, as it certainly would not appear a reasonable one in view of current conditions.
Canadian Pacific-Forecast
With the proposed new Canadian Pacific Railway pier now under construction at Vancouver, the case is different. This pier is primarily designed as a one berth per side pier and must be sufficiently long to accommodate the big Empress steamers. Its length is to be 800 feet.
ADMIRAL GRANT AWAY.
The Admiral liner President Grant cleared from the Outer Docks late this afternoon for the Orient, carrying a large list of passengers and a good cargo from Sound ports. Returning to Hongkong was S. W.
Wolfe and family, who have been spending the summer months in Victoria, thereby getting away from the hot weather marking this season in Hongkong. Elmer Sperry, the inventor of the gyroscopic compass, will also be a passenger, traveling to Tokio, where he will be invested with the Japanese Order of the Rising Sun.
BERTHS IN INNER HARBOR.
The Margaret Coughlan, just cleared and painted in the Esquimalt drydock by Yarrows, will this evening come around to the Inner Harbor and berth at the Canadian Pacific Sound Mill to take on board a considerable portion of her cargo of 3,500,000 feet of lumber for the Montreal Harbor Board.

Venture Is Standing By; No Danger Is Feared

While steaming south from Prince Rupert under a dead snow ball in a dense fog, the Admiral Line steamer Queen ran ashore on White Cliff Isis expected to float on this afternoon's tide. The steamer Venture is standing by to render any aid necessary.

White Cliff Island is sixteen miles of the Skeena River. The Queen was four hours out from Prince Rupert, and had been proceeding with extreme caution through the fog, according to wireless information.

The Pacific Salvage Co. has been notified and is holding the Algerine in readiness to proceed north should her assistance prove necessary.

London Auction of New Ves-

Deflation

The tremendous drop in steamship values is indicated by the reserves placed on two war-time constructed vessels, well known on this coast, which were included in a recent sale list in London, Eng.
These vessels, the Sylvia Victoria and the Wildomine, were built in 1919 at the Coughlan Shipyard for the Imperial Munition Board. Both are of 8,000 tons, and each cost about $175,000. Yet the reserve price of $135,000 apiece was not attained, and the vessels were withdrawn.
A sister ship, the Margaret Coughlan, is at present reconducting at Esquimalt for a voyage to Montreal.

GREEK SKIPPER

SCUTTLER HIS SHIP
British Admiralty Court Finds
"Drifting Mine" Imaginary

Justice has been delivered by Mr.
Justice Greer in the British Admiralty
Court in one of a number of actions which have arisen out of the loss of Greek steamers. The plaintiffs were the mortgagees of the steamer Joanna, which was owned by a Greek, and which was sunk off
the Spanish coast. The defendants were insurance companies which had issued policies covering war risks
and marine risks on the vessel and on freight. The captain and crew said that the steamer was sunk by a drifting mine, but the defendants contended that she had been deliberately cast away on the instructions of the owner. The defendants also pleaded that the mortgage had been registered in Greece, that the plaintiffs had no right to sue under it.
It was not suggested that the plaintiffs were parties to the fraud alleged.
No War Risk.
Mr. Justice Greer found on the evidence that the vessel did not strike a mine and that she was scuttled "with
the connivance and by the orders of the owner." His lordship held that,
although the mortgage had not been registered in Greece, it had been granted under an English agreement, which could have been enforced in the English courts, and that therefore the plaintiffs were not deprived of their right to sue. He gave judgment in favor of the war-risk underwriters and against the marine-risk underwriters.

New Provincial Organization to Serve Useful Purpose

ria Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the freight committee, returned to the City yesterday after attending a meeting of the new Provincial Freight Bureau, which has been advocating for some time, and has been instrumental in establishing. A. E. Rumsey has been selected to take charge of the Bureau, which he has been advocating for some time, and has been instrumental in establishing. A. E. Rumsey has been selected to take charge of the Bureau, which will be operating its offices in Vancouver on October 1, and will serve the interests of the mercantile house of the Province.
All merchants, manufacturers, and industries will be asked to subscribe a nominal fee for the upkeep of the Bureau. They will be able to have their freight bills checked, claims instantly and collected, and information will be available at all times respecting freight matters.
Complete information will be kept on file at the Bureau regarding tariffs, rules and regulations. The Bureau will also assist the Province in fighting for fair rates and any other matter affecting the interests of the members of the Bureau.
A board will be named on which representatives from the commercial centres of the Province will be selected, and the organization will be

GREEK SKIPPER

SCUTTLER HIS SHIP
British Admiralty Court Finds
"Drifting Mine" Imaginary

Justice has been delivered by Mr.
Justice Greer in the British Admiralty
Court in one of a number of actions which have arisen out of the loss of Greek steamers. The plaintiffs were the mortgagees of the steamer Joanna, which was owned
by a Greek, and which was sunk off
the Spanish coast. The defendants were insurance companies which had issued policies covering war risks
and marine risks on the vessel and
on freight. The captain and crew
said that the steamer was sunk by a drifting mine, but the defendants
contended that she had been deliberately cast away on the instructions
of the owner. The defendants also pleaded that the mortgage had been registered in Greece, that the plaintiffs had no right to sue under it.
It was not suggested that the plaintiffs were parties to the fraud
alleged.
No War Risk.
Mr. Justice Greer found on the evidence that the vessel did not strike a
mine and that she was scuttled "with
the connivance and by the orders of
the owner." His lordship held that,
although the mortgage had not been registered in Greece, it had been granted under an English agreement, which could have been enforced in the English courts, and that

Would Tap Sooke Water.—Alderman Leeming and Major Cuthbert Homes called on Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, yesterday, and outlined to him the proposal that restrictions should be slackened in connection with the Sooke water line to William Head in order to enable people in Metchoin to secure an adequate water supply. The Greater Victoria Committee intends taking the matter up with the proper department in Ottawa but wished to have Dr. King's support.

CHINESE SCHOOL STRIKE BROKEN

Trouble Settled, Trustees Believe: Some Chinese in White Schools

The strike of Chinese school children, in protest against the City School Board's separate school policy, has been broken, it was asserted at the School Board offices today. The Chinese pupils are returning to their classes, and when the new Railway Street School is opened, they will all be at work again, it is expected. Eleven Chinese children who have proved that they can speak English well have been granted permission to attend the white schools. A few more will be able to pass the tests set by the school authorities. It is thought. Several Japanese children, it is expected, will be unable to pass the language tests, and will be sent to the separate schools with the Chinese.

GARBAGE FERMENTS; TOO MUCH KICK IN IT FOR NEIGHBORS

Sand Pits Refuse to Become a "Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever"

Garbage which the City authorities piled into the old Spring Ridge sand pits some months ago in order, as Mayor Marchant put it, to make them a "thing of beauty and a joy forever," has started to ferment. In fermenting it has caused such an objectionable odor that the nearby residents are said to be carrying smelling salts to counteract it. They have protested to members of the City Council and Alderman Reginald Hayward, after getting as near the base of the trouble as he could, is demanding that something be done to curb the garbage's new "alcoholic kick."

"The trouble is that when the garbage was dumped into the sand pits there wasn't enough earth or top dressing put on top of it," Mayor Marchant declared today. "The scheme was all right in theory, but the people who opposed it caused it to be abandoned before it could be worked out to a logical conclusion. That was the whole trouble. The garbage was all right in theory, but the people who opposed it caused it to be abandoned before it could be worked out to a logical conclusion. That was the whole trouble. SUDDEN DEATH

In response to a hurry up call to premises at 2948 Scott Street at 8:55 last night, the police found that Thomas Scott, a young man who resided with his aged mother at 2911 Scott Street had dropped dead while in the act of smoking a pipe. The man had just returned from a theatre where he had taken two children of the home he was visiting. Seated smoking in the presence of a 10-year-old girl and a 13-year-old boy, children of his host, the man suddenly collapsed. Dr. Fowler was called and pronounced life extinct. The remains were taken to the Sands Funeral Parlors, Coroner E. C. Hart being notified.

DEER SHOOTING IN MALAHAT BANNED

With the opening of the deer shooting season to-day, the Hon. A. M. Manson put through an order redefining the Malahat district of Vancouver Island in which no deer shooting is allowed. In the same regulations the restricted district is defined as the following south of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway and east of Sooke River and Sooke Harbor.

For the foregoing this has been substituted, defining the restricted area:

"All that district lying to the south and east of the line commencing at the point of intersection of Finlayson Arm Road with the Island Highway (Malahat Road), south along the Malahat to the northerly cross-road to the Goldstream Hotel, thence along the Goldstream cross-road to the Sooke Road; thence along the Sooke Road westerly to the Sooke River."

The change cuts down the size of the no-shooting area. It was made chiefly because the boundaries of the district are not generally known, and there is nothing to indicate them in most cases.

POPULAR CITIZEN SUDDENLY CALLED

Fatal Heart Attack Arrests Robert Clark on Way to Vancouver Boat

Taken suddenly ill while depositing his car at Plimley's Garage last night at 11:35 o'clock, Robert Clark, ex-councillor of Sooke, resident at Cedar Hill Road was removed in the police ambulance to the St. Joseph's Hospital and died at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

The deceased who was 37 years of age was well and favorably known in Victoria, having come here in infancy, with his parents from Lancashire, England. He was the son of the late Watson Clark and Mrs. Jane Clark, of that place, and is survived by three brothers, Watson A. of Victoria, George of Port Moody and Ernest H. of Shawnigan, and two sisters, Isabel and Annie both living at home. He also leaves to mourn his widow (who was a Miss O'Brien) and a daughter, one boy of eight or nine years of age.

When overtaken by the sudden illness which ended so tragically Mr. Clark was on his way to Vancouver to attend, as vice-president of the Elk's Club, the Provincial amateur baseball game between the Victoria Elks and Sooke. He was a prominent member of the reception committee for the Elk's Venetian Festival, and accompanied the Vice-Regal Party on board the "Gunbird." He took an active part in politics, and was one of the campaign managers for Charles W. Dickie, M. P., for Nanaimo, at his election two years ago. He was also a member of the Masonic Order, and his wide interests and many activities coupled with his long residence here won him a large circle of friends among whom he was deservedly popular.

He was a member of the firm of Fairalls, Ltd., being in joint direction there with his brother, Watson Clark. The family own very large timber interests in the Shawnigan district.

"GIRL FROM TOKIO'S" FINAL APPEARANCE

Hincks's Company Playing to Big Audiences at Playhouse

Those people who like a change from the "silent drama" owe a debt of gratitude to H. N. Hincks and his clever company at the Playhouse for the tuneful scenes and breezy dialogue of the latest potter opera, "The Girl From Tokio," which will be seen to-night for the last performance. Among all the musical plays that have been heard in Victoria, "The Girl From Tokio" can hold its own for sheer lulling melody and breezy choruses.

"Too Bad," a dramatic fragment with a startling denouement, precedes the main attraction, and a short

Memories of "The Affairs of Anatol" Wallace Reid, Bebe Daniels and Julia Faye—all stellar members of the famous Cecil B. De Mille success—head the cast of William de Mille's newest Paramount picture, "Nice People," which will be seen at the Dominion Theatre all this week.

Despite Wallace Reid's long service under the Paramount banner, he has never worked under the direction of William de Mille. This is equally true of Bebe Daniels, Conrad Nagel, another member of the all-star cast, is a veteran of several previous William de Mille dramas.

"Nice People" was originally introduced to the public via the stage. Clara Berger wrote the screen play from Rachel Crothers' stage original. The situations are said to be quite thrilling.

CAPITOL

A crap shooter with a sweet tooth! Well, why not? Mervyn LeRoy, playing the part of the office boy in "The Bonded Woman," Betty Compson's Paramount feature which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is only a youngster, despite his stage and screen experience. So when they had him shooting craps with tubes of sugar "pipped" with a lead-pencil, it is not surprising that so many of the "dice" disappeared that the property man finally prevailed upon the director, Philip E. Rosen, to forbid the players eating the dice!

"The Bonded Woman" provides Betty Compson with a splendid role. The cast includes John Bowers, Richard Dix, Ethel Wales and other capable screen players.

COLUMBIA

"I believe a man has as much chance of making a million to-day as he had in the days of our fathers," said William Farnum during the filming of his latest William Fox picture "Shackles of Gold," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre. The question came up because Farnum, in the play, rises from work as a dock laborer to be a man of millions.

"Take the case in hand," he continued. "A dock laborer. There are many dock laborers of fine mentality, and if such a one became familiar with oil or other stocks, he might amass a million. True, he might lose it. His character drawing in this play is as I believe it should be."

"But don't let any one tell you that the 'good old days' are gone. They're still here—for those who will make use of them."

ROYAL VICTORIA

Richard Barthelmess, star of "Tolable David," pronounced one of the three best pictures of the present season, will be the feature at the Royal Victoria Theatre for the last time to-night in his latest First National attraction, "Sonny." This is the adaptation of the stage play by George Hobbart, which ran so successfully on Broadway last fall and which was declared one of the most human stories ever dramatized.

Pauline Garon, who created the leading feminine role in the stage play, retains her part in the screen production by virtue of her excellent acting. Patterson Dial, who had an important part in Barthelmess' "The Seventh Day," has the role of a red cross while the remainder of the cast includes Margaret Seddon, Lucky Fox, Herbert Grimwood, Fred Nicholls, James Terbell, Margaret Elizabeth Faulconer and Virginia Mages.

Henry King, who directed the two previous independent Dick Barthelmess pictures, wielded "the megaphone" for "Sonny" and the liaison between star and director promises, in this instance as in the two previous releases, a perfect picture.

The story centres about the complications ensuing when Joe Peters, Hoboken poolroom proprietor, returns from the war to find himself taken for Sonny Crosby, who was killed in France. Sonny happened to be the last word in money and blue blood. Joe wouldn't have taken the job for anything, but there was Sonny's blind mother looking for the return of her boy.

Simple characterization and intensely human appeal are the outstanding features of a story of unusual dramatic interest.

Lavish Display Feature of Royal Offering Next Week

The ornate sets used in "Foolish Wives," the million dollar picture to be shown at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday, alone cost more than $400,000, officials of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company assert. Royal Patrons Pleased With Offerings of Ex-service Men

"The Radios," composed of ex-service men who did not a little to lighten the burden of Canadian and Imperial troops on service during the late war, will again appear at the Royal Victoria Theatre this evening with an exceptional finale. For four days this week the Radios have been meeting with great success, staging a sprightly and up to the minute production that well merited the ovations it has received. "Sonny" featuring Dick Barthelmess, is the film attraction. The Radios are already well known to a large section of the theatre-going audiences by reason of their lively entertainment staged until recently at the Gorge. On the boards of the Royal Victoria the ex-service concert party have consolidated their former successes in the production of this week's entertainment.

LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB

Members of the Ladies' Musical Club are looking forward to a very delightful year musically, and are opening their 1922-23 season with a joint recital by those popular local artists, Gertrude Huntley Green, pianist, and Gideon Hicks, baritone. This will afford a splendid opportunity for Victoria to hear these artists in joint recital work, for although they have done much work together in other cities it is seldom they appear together in Victoria. The programme prepared is of interest to all music lovers. The club's decision to hold the first concert of the season in the Capitol Theatre will be welcomed by members and general public alike, as last year so many were disappointed through not being able to secure tickets for the first concert.

The first tea of the season will be held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Wilson, York Road, Uplands, on Saturday, September 23, from 3 to 6 o'clock, when old and new members will be welcomed.

Subscriptions for the coming season may be handed to the secretary at this tea, or mailed direct to Mrs. Clarence Hoard, 1393 Rockland Avenue.

Secretary R. R. Webb reports that his office has furnished a large number of tourists with information regarding roads and other matters. Most of the local people who have gone on tours of any length have applied to the club office for information, and this has always been gladly given. Many inquiries have also been received by the club through the mail as to roads and resorts on Vancouver Island. It is always a pleasure for the club to furnish such information as will induce people to come to Victoria and spend a few days here, as it is felt that in this way many new residents are secured from among the people who cannot withstand the lure of the climate and scenery here.

The City Council's proposed tax on gasoline in order to raise revenue with which to carry on the business of the city was immediately fought by the Victoria Automobile Club, which everything that affected the interests of the motorist.

A meeting of the club will be called in a few days in the offices in the Pemberton Building for the purpose of discussing various matters of importance, and a full attendance of members is requested.

TIE RODS

Beneath the rear axle of an automobile the rods, extending from one side to the other, are placed for the purpose of preventing the axle from sagging under strain or vibration and load, while the car is in motion. The rods should always be tight, and, if loose, tighten the nuts which secure the rods to the axle ends. Unless the rods are tight, they will not serve their purpose of relieving the axle from strain.

SAFETY ON DARK ROADS

When turning around in a narrow road at night do not tarry any longer than absolutely necessary, as the lights on your car cannot be seen even from an oblique angle.

Strawberries are successfully transported by motor truck into Detroit, Mich., by farmers 150 miles distant from that city.

GROUND CYLINDERS PROVE ECONOMICAL IN AUTO OPERATION

New Piston Rings Will Not Always Solve Trouble

While the importance of accurately ground cylinders has long been known by those experienced in the building of automobile motors and to the well-informed repair man it is just beginning to be realized by the average car owner. For a motor to develop maximum power the cylinder must be ground accurately so that the diameter does not vary more than .0005-inch, as to roundness. Again, the bore must be straight and absolutely square with the base of the cylinder, so that the piston is free to operate without cramping. This is an indication of undue friction and noise, and often leads to scoring. In building a high grade motor the first machining operation consists of boring the cylinder from the rough casting to within .01 to .015-inch of the desired finished diameter, and then finish grinding on a special grinding machine built for the purpose.

Causes of Inaccuracy

It is difficult and almost impossible to bore a cylinder from the rough casting so that the hole is square with the base. The boring tool has a tendency to follow the cored hole. Because of inaccuracy of the core setting, the casting is always thicker on one side than on the other. The grinding wheel will straighten an inaccurately bored hole and leave it square with the base, provided the grinding machine is of proper construction and rigid enough to handle such work. Experience in building motors in quantity has shown that the operator of a cylinder grinder, in production work, especially under the piece work system, often tilts the cylinder in a direction to enable the grinding wheel to follow the bored hole to shorten the time required for grinding and thus increase production. This practice should be condemned.

Many of the lower priced motors are built without the final operation of grinding the cylinders, reaming or lapping to make a finished hole being substituted. This operation leaves a smooth hole which may measure round, but which usually is not square with the base of the cylinder. Thus, the relative efficiency depends largely on chance, as the cylinders may or may not be straight. This explains why many cars of the same make and model are not parallel in performance.

Results of Leaky Pistons

Without an accurate cylinder, good compression cannot be maintained because it is impossible to fit a ring to a cylinder not perfectly round or to one which has been enlarged in the top, either by wear or by inaccurate machining. Aside from the compression affected, the leakage past the rings is more noticeable on the suction stroke, when a certain amount of air is sucked up from the crank-case past the rings and into the combustion chamber. This air weakens the mixture and causes the motor to miss, especially at idling speeds. The first impulse of the driver when this condition occurs is to enrich the mixture. In a measure, this practice overcomes the difficulty, but it leads to more serious trouble. An excess of raw gasoline is thus introduced into the cylinder which works down past the rings on the compression stroke, thinning the oil and destroying its lubricating qualities and possibly resulting in one or more scored cylinders. This gasoline eventually reaches the crank-case and mixes with the oil, thinning it to such an extent that it is useless for lubricating. This condition not only is found in motors whose cylinders are worn from use, but is often present in comparatively new motors in which the cylinders have been inaccurately bored or reamed.

The popular remedy for this condition, once the car owner becomes aware that it exists, is to install a set of new piston rings. The trouble usually is aggravated because new rings require a long time to wear in an egg-shaped cylinder. The logical procedure is to send the cylinders to some reliable company that is equipped with accurate special cylinder grinding machinery, and have the cylinders ground square with the base and fitted with new pistons and properly fitting rings. Care should be taken to make sure that the cylinders are not ground on a makeshift grinder but on a unit built for the purpose by manufacturers of long experience in building this class of machine tools.

AUTO WIRELESS

PHONES APPEAL

Use of Radio Equipment Proves Popular

The possibilities of the automobile radio include an almost limitless field of use and with tremendous strides at present being made in its development, it is bound to become one of the indispensable utilities of modern civilization.

With a Chevrolet recently equipped in this fashion at the factory it is possible for a family to drive anywhere within 100 miles or so of a broadcasting station and picnic while the radio in their car amuses or instructs them with music, sermons, or wireless telegraphy. Education and entertainment can be transported to wherever people congregate. If the United States Department of Agriculture had similar radio equipment in the hands of its county agents, department experts could talk to thousands of farmers at once and thus bring the tremendous added benefits to our agriculture that would be made possible through a greater broadcasting of its work.

Just as anywhere on the high seas ships can keep constantly in touch with ports and other ships through the use of the radio, now the automobile—the land ship—can immensely facilitate distribution of information to the great benefit of mankind.

One ingenious amateur, by utilizing the power of the generator on his car, not only receives messages, but also transmits them. Such equipment makes possible the use of motor cars as scouts of reporters of crop, weather or news, messages from any part of the country.

The news reporter need no longer be obliged to beat his rivals to the wire. With a car equipped to talk instantly and directly with the radio office of his paper, he is free of all restrictions or competition.

INSPECTION OF WIRING SAVES AUTO TROUBLE

Occasional Tightening Saver
Much Trouble

Good wiring is something that is not always found on American cars. Our quantity production ideals sometimes lead to carelessness in this important matter. In some cases it would be better if the car owner replaced the wiring furnished by the maker with a complete new set of the best grade insulated cable that he could get, says Alexander Johnston in "Motor."

In cases where the wiring is of poor quality, the insulation is likely to fall off in places and to break in fine cracks that permit current leakage. Cables in such condition which become water or oil soaked throw out the whole electrical system, which cannot function properly without being drained in this way. The results become apparent in dim lights, weak starter action and perhaps likely to open at the seams and admit water.

Test Batteries.

When derangement of the electrical system becomes evident, the first thing to do is to test the battery and see if its gravity is 1.280 or better. If it is, the battery is all right. Since the battery feeds at speeds usually below fifteen miles per hour and the generator assumes the load at higher speeds, it is reasonable to suspect the wiring if the lights are dim below fifteen miles per hour. The feed-out of the battery is probably at fault. Frayed insulation around the terminals frequently permits a strand of wire to work loose and make contact, the immediate effect being irregularity in lights or ignition. A bad connection in the ammeter circuit opens the circuit so that the driver cannot tell whether the battery is being charged or not.

Water and Dirt.

Water and dirt sometimes work their way into the wiring housing in the frame channel or on the engine side of the dash. On a rainy day the rain carries water into the engine compartment and wires and cables get their share. After this has happened for months the cables soak up enough moisture to give trouble nearly all the time.

When an unprotected cable begins to fray or crack it is a good plan to wind it with tape, but in really serious cases replacement of the offending wire is safest.

If the electrical system is to function properly all the time, the wires must be kept protected and the terminals must be clean and secure. A loose terminal does not pass on the full flow of current. A loose ignition of the engine and a badly corroded terminal can stop the engine and put the lights and starter completely out of commission.

It is an excellent idea for the buyer of a new car to go over the wiring system as soon as he gets the vehicle. He should see that every wire is so fastened or housed so that it cannot swing and rub against parts that will chafe it. Where it is needed flexible metal conduits should be installed care being used to get the best grade of conduits, as the cheaper ones are

PROTECT IGNITION CABLES.

Old garden hose can be cut up and fitted on ignition cables to protect the wires from short circuits, oil, etc. Holes can be cut into the wall of the hose at the points where the wires are to lead out to the spark plugs.

The valve sleeve of an automobile tire is designed to prevent moisture from entering the tire through the valve opening of the rim.

Nothing to Buy but the License

"Nothing to buy but the license" describes the complete equipment of the new Chevrolet. It is not necessary to spend a dollar more than the low purchase price of this car to make it complete—no "extras" to buy to make your car modern and capable of giving satisfactory service. This real economy is further evidenced after the purchase price through unusual mileage from gasoline, oil and tires, and fewer parts replacements.

Twenty to thirty miles to the gallon of gasoline.

A salesman's legs will not carry him fast enough to keep up with competition. Business is labelled RUSH, now-a-days, and a salesman needs an automobile to hurry him from customer to customer. The object is to save time, but, if his car runs on poor tires, he will waste as much time "taking off" and "putting on" as it would take to "foot it." Where motors are used to save time, how inconsistent to equip them with tires that waste time. Time is the essence of the automobile in business—ergo—put your salesman's cars on "Gutta Percha" Tires.

NEW SEDAN OF STEEL

Combination of Lightness and Strength in Latest Dodge.

Word has just been received of a new type of car manufactured by Dodge Brothers. It is the business sedan of steel. This construction represents a great advance in sedan design. It permits the virtually permanent enamel finish, which has always been the distinctive quality of Dodge Brothers' touring car, and roadster. It affords an ideal union of body lightness and strength.

The seats are upholstered in genuine grain leather. The rear seat cushions are separate units, and can be removed in a few seconds, converting the entire rear section of the car into a spacious carrying compartment. The front seat tilts forward, affording perfect clearance through the rear doors.

This convertible feature is new. Business men, salesmen, farmers, tourists, campers and every one who has occasion, at times, to use a passenger car for carrying bulky articles or cumbersome luggage, will appreciate its striking advantages.

Cord tires, window regulators, windshield wiper, windshield cleaner, dome light heater, Yale door locks and the usual closed car refinements have been provided.

In size and beauty of line it is identical with Dodge Brothers' regular sedan, incorporating the improvements in design recently announced.

A. E. Humphries, local Dodge distributor, expects to find the popularity of this car to be as great, if not greater, than the business coupe which was recently put on the market.

MOTOR NOTES.

George Bone, of the B. C. Tire House, 612 Pandora Avenue, vulcanizing and general tire work, is now carrying a line of Goodrich tires.

Victor Meston, of Meston's Ltd., 1407 Broad Street, auto painters, repairers and body builders, announces that his firm has just completed a new fifteen passenger Pierce-Arrow passenger car for the Flying Line to be operated between Victoria and Sidney.

Cyclists and others will be glad to know that James Bryant, Johnson and Broad, has installed a fine new air system. "Jim" carries a full line of cycle supplies and sporting goods.

New York state has nearly 1,000,000 registered motor vehicles, of which 300,000 are in the metropolitan area.

Annual Cowichan Gathering Will End To-night Flower Displays Attractive; Prizes Awarded

(Times Correspondence)
Duncan, Sept. 16.—The exhibits at the Cowichan Fall Fair have proved interesting and instructive to many visitors. They will be viewed until 10 o'clock to-night, when the Fair will close.

When visitors enter the main hall they find the centre is occupied by a gorgeous display of flowers. The first collection and the outstanding feature are the gladioli. Mr. Palmer's collection of more than twenty named varieties ranging in shade from the palest pink and yellow to the darkest reds. Agsters are also very fine. The Cliffs' collection of asters having taken first prize. Cauliflowers, cabbages, lettuce and tomatoes are unusually fine and have large entries; vegetable marrow, celeriac, canteloupes, pumpkins and squash are of fine quality and wonderful size, and carrots, beets and potatoes are a splendid showing.

The fruit is splendid in quality and coloring but the number of exhibits, especially in apples, is rather disappointing. Peaches and grapes, pears and blackberries are unusually fine.

In the Indian department the work is unusually good. The baskets are of excellent workmanship and the jewelry is splendidly knitted out of the finest hand-made wool, such as are in great demand by hunters and woods men for their great warmth and wearing qualities. Fruit, raw and bottled, jams, crockery and rugs and needlework are a credit to the Indians and to the agent, A. H. Lomas, who is in charge. Artistic needlework, carving toys are among the features.

There is a splendid and large collection of beautiful paintings by local artists. Cowichan is fortunate in having such a number of them. Some of these paintings are made with Cowichan pigments discovered a few years ago by R. A. Burckett.

An interesting loan collection of Indian curios by the Indians of the plains occupies a corner of the room.

Among the prize winners are:

SERVES CHURCH OVER 40 YEARS

Sketch of Rev. Dr. Chown, Who Presided at Methodist Conference

Rev. Dr. Samuel Dwight Chown of Toronto, General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, who will preside at the opening of the Methodist General Conference in this city on September 27, has been General Superintendent of the church for 12 years, having been associated with the late Rev. Dr. Carson for four years of that time, and being the sole occupant of the position for the last eight years.

Dr. Chown has been an outstanding figure in Canadian Methodism for many years. His activities in religious, social and moral reform movements have extended out far beyond the borders of the Dominion and he has an international reputation. The General Conference of the Methodist Church is one of the great religious organizations of this country, and this parliament of delegates is representative of every section of Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda and of the great mission work in China and Japan. During his coming two weeks' session in this city it will plan for the general progress of the church.

Dr. Chown received his education at the Kingston Grammar School and at Victoria University, Cobourg.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by Victoria University in 1898, and he holds the same degree from Knox College, also the L.L.D. degree from Mount Allison and Ohio Wesleyan Universities. He was ordained a minister in 1879 and for 20 years was in the active pastorate, during which he held important charges in the Toronto and Montreal Conferences.

Among the official positions Dr. Chown has held in the Methodist denomination are the following: Chairman of the Toronto West District, 1897-99; Chairman of the Toronto Central District, 1900-02; President of the Toronto Conference in 1900, and Secretary of the Social Service Department, 1902-10. Dr. Chown has been a member of the joint committee on the question of church union since the beginning of negotiations. He has been an ardent advocate of union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of this country and has frequently spoken in public support of that proposal.

"CHRISTIANITY"

Time will be given to questions and discussion.

Rev. A. Nairne, D.D., Canon of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, has been appointed Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge.

On the following Monday evening a harvest thanksgiving supper will be held in the social hall, to be followed later by a concert in the church auditorium.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR UNITARIANS

E. Howard Durnin, B.A., will preach at the Unitarian Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

Mr. Durnin is a native Canadian. He took his university work in Toronto and Manitoba universities. That has been followed by four years of research work in sociology in Detroit, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Seattle.

He is a man with clear-cut and practical ideas and delivers them with force and eloquence. He has had a varied experience including work as a teacher, preacher, salesman, and ten years of practical farming. He is here to stay. He believes Victoria is destined to become an educational centre of first rate international importance.

He will talk to the Crusaders in Centennial Methodist Church at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. Durnin believes that it is in the proper education of just such boys and young men as these, as well as young women, that the hope of democracy and civilization lies.

sed both houses of the convention in joint session. With Bishop William Cabell Brown, chairman of the House of Bishops, in the chair both houses formally greeted representatives of the Canadian Episcopal church at a joint session. Bishop A. W. Shelly's
4X BREAD

HAS woman progressed? Surely! Great grandmothers took the wool and spun the cloth and made the clothes of the family. She totted at the oven and tub. "Woman's work was NEVER done"—no wonder! Today, steam spins, artists design and specialists make our clothes; we buy our cheese and butter. Woman now has better things to do! Nor does the modern wife spend hours a week in baking when SHELLY'S 4X BREAD can be delivered to her daily—light and sweet, temptingly fresh, enticingly "golden-brown."

LADY DELEGATES FIRST TO LEAVE

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Two Lady Laymen Will Attend General Methodist Conference at Toronto

The General Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada will hold its next session in Metropolitan Church, Toronto, commencing September 27. This is the parliament of the church and meets every four years. Some three hundred or more delegates will be present from Canada, Japan, China and Bermuda; together with fraternal delegates from England, Ireland and U. S. A. The delegates are equally representative of the ministers and laymen of the church. Thirteen of each will attend from British Columbia, of this number two are lady delegates, Mrs. W. T. Reid of New Westminster, and Mrs. T. H. Wright of Beaconsfield. This is the first time ladies have been sent as delegates from British Columbia although several were sent from other sections of Canada four years ago.

The Conference will probably take some decisive step in the matter of Church Union. The Methodist Church is of a unanimous opinion as to the desirability of Church Union, and has so expressed itself for several years. This would also seem to be the attitude of the Congregational body but in the extreme East and West there are a goodly number of leading men in the Presbyterian Church, principally we believe ministers who are not in favor of an early consummation of union and many are opposed to organic union entirely. What attitude the Conference will take it is difficult to anticipate but it is suggested that the Methodist and Congregational Churches go forward at once with the project with each section large or small of the Presbyterian body as may be disposed to proceed in like manner. Already in Canada are 600 Union Churches who have by their own action accepted the basis provided for the United Churches, and belong to no one of the existing bodies but stand in isolation practically directing their own affairs. This state of affairs cannot long continue and unless Union is consummated at an early date, it would appear likely that these 600 churches might become a new denomination to add to the already too large number of such in Canada. The Canadian public will watch with great interest the deliberations of the General Conference of Methodism.

English Tribute.

Of the death and burial of Rev. Mr. Carnes, an article in the British Weekly states:

"On Tuesday, June 27 last, there was laid in 'The Garden of Rest,' Golden Green, the dust of Rev. Wm. Carnes, of Hammersmith, whose life, covering a period of over eighty-three years, was one of remarkable self-sacrifice."

"He was one of Spurgeon's first students, and on completing his training proceeded to North America, where he labored amongst the Red Indians, and later founded the first churches on the shores of the far-off Pacific. In middle life he returned to England, held two pastorates in the Midlands, and then settled in London. Then began the career which won the admiration of all who knew him. For over twenty-five years he labored in the interest of the men of the London Fire Brigade and Metropolitan Police Force. To them he was known as 'Daddy.' His tall, erect figure—he was over six feet—was familiar at our fire stations. When the war broke out Mr. Carnes joined the National Guard, and, although bordering on eighty years of age, spent long hours each day at Victoria and Charing Cross Stations, guiding our soldier lads to their destinations. At this period he sacrificed all he had for others, and lived in a bare, single room at Fulham. On Tuesday Shepherd's Bush Tabernacle was filled with mourners, and when the coffin, draped in the Union Jack, was laid beside the communion table, there was a great hush. The service was conducted by the pastor, who paid a tribute to the memory of the old soldier. The London Fire Brigade and Metropolitan Police were largely represented. Members of the National Guard and Hammersmith Town Council, headed by the mayor of Hammersmith, attended."

URGE ALL PEOPLE TO PRAY FOR PEACE

Triennial Session Protestant Episcopal Church at Portland

Portland, Ore., Sept. 16.—The house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church in triennial session here adopted a resolution urging all people to pray in the interest of world peace.

Ira W. Stratton, of Reading, Pennsylvania, who introduced the resolution recommended its passage in line with suggestions made by Canadian bishops who had addressed both houses of the convention in joint session.

With Bishop William Cabell Brown, chairman of the House of Bishops, in the chair both houses formally greeted representatives of the Canadian Episcopal church at a joint session. Bishop A. W. De Pencier, of New Westminster, B. C., and Bishop A. J. Doull, of Kootenay, B. C., responding to the greetings, urged their stations among English-speaking peoples in the interest of world peace.

Women of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States, in their thank offering which is a feature of each triennial convention, at the communion services to-day gave $69,125, according to official announcement made to-night.

The communion service at which the money was given was attended by 1,250 women.

The news has been received in England from the secretary of the Melanesian Mission that a hurricane lately demolished all their stations, including fifty churches in the New Hebrides, a group of islands which form a part of the Melanesian Mission.

BOBBIE'S TRUMPETER

THE battle was over. All around lay the dead. Here lay a gallant general with the red plume brushed off his tin tunic and his head completely blown away. Further off lay a heap of the enemy's tin bodies piled one on the other in confusion. The battle had been a sorry one for the enemy who had been annihilated, it appeared. You see, it was Bobbie's birthday and he had been given several regiments of tin soldiers.

Planning the battle Bobbie had sought the garden. Here, behind a row of wallflowers he had entrenched row after row of his troops. Then, and most unfairly, he had grouped the enemy together on the top of a mound which he named "Hill 60" as a suggestion from his dad. Powder and shot were barred, and bow and arrows were out of date, so Bobbie displayed cunning and used a weapon strange to the eyes of the enemy, the catapult.

Arming himself with small round pebbles, the subject of a special trip to the seashore, Bobbie had engaged the enemy in a hot battle, and indeed when that tired and happy youngster blew "cease fire" on his mouth organ, the enemy had long since passed into the limbo of disablement.

The first of the enemy on the other hand was in the hands of Bobbie's cousin Ralph. Ralph, however, was not a marksman like his rival so the victorious army had lost a general and that was about the extent of its damage. Even the general could be mended, Bobbie found, by the application of a little glue and a match stick stuffed into his body so that it would protrude and take the part of the neck to carry the head that had been shot from the little tin shoulders.

As Ralph's army was made up of regiment after regiment of soldiers from Bobbie's forces, playing the roll of the enemy for this particular battle, no real resentment rested in the heart of the second boy. At this stage Ralph was called to his supper and Bobbie sat down to look over the remnants of his once gallant dressed toy soldiers, now a very patchy affair.

It was a very hot day and as he turned over the battered tin soldiers in his hands, Bobbie became quite alone. It was while he was examining a broken cavalry officer that Bobbie got the surprise of his life. He was just trying to see if the left leg of a private would not fit the missing limb in the wounded officer and so make one whole cavalryman, when he heard a voice at his side.

Turning like a flash, Bobbie saw a trumpeter in his toy army but had grown marvelously and was now very much alive, seated at his side.

The trumpeter sat nursing one foot and was very cross. "Botheration," he said, rubbing his tin foot with a tin hand, "that last shot pinched a corn in my foot." Bobbie, however, was not a heartless fellow. He repeated the trumpeter's name, and it was a real corn, these army boots are no good." The rubbing continued, but without effect apparently for presently the trumpeter got tired of trying to mend his damaged foot and stood up. He looked badly, but he could stand and that was something.

"Careless of me," Bobbie heard him mutter, "I forgot to wound the retreat." Sutting the action to the words he blew a firm blast on his tin trumpet and Bobbie rubbed his eyes in amazement. Every soldier of the enemy's forces was getting to his feet. Cavalrymen who had been knocked off their horses were busy catching the horses and remounting. Aides were dashing here and there coaxing regiments into line, and presently Bobbie saw the whole of the enemy march off, retreating behind the wallflowers and so out of sight under a laurel hedge.

Recovering his composure Bobbie began to think furiously. Here he had been the enemy and yet the enemy were marching away. He must put a stop to this. Where was his own trumpeter. Suddenly he came on a twisted mass of tin that still held the semblance of a trumpet at its side. His trumpeter was dead! "What ho, little man," came the voice of his dad, "you've been sleeping your senses away. Come on, into supper." Bobbie rubbed his eyes; so it all has been a dream. Too bad, he could have been sure he was awake. Never mind, he would tell dad how he had won; how he had driven the enemy and won the battle. "I won, dad, I made them run. I took their leader prisoner and—" "You lost your trumpeter?" Bobbie flushed. Now how did dad know that. Little Reader, whenever you hear anyone boasting about what he has done you may be sure he has lost his trumpeter, and that he has dreamt it all.

Sparrows May Be Trained To Perform

NO DOUBT you have seen performing birds. Little Reader, where a flock of trained canaries will go through all kinds of tricks and give every indication of enjoying them, too; but performing birds are rare. Few, perhaps, have made more progress along these lines than the Chinese. The following story arises out of a scene witnessed at a repatriation camp at William Head while thousands of Chinese troops were en route to their homes after serving in labor battalions in France.

Taking what appeared to Western eyes to be an ordinary house sparrow, a coolie would release it from the cage it traveled in, and the bird would fly around, finally perching on his shoulder. The coolie would then throw a small red dart high in the air. At a low whistle the sparrow would give chase, catch the dart in mid-air and bring it back to the thrower.

This was repeated several times, and then at another signal the bird was made to perch at some distance off. The dart would be thrown again and this time the sparrow would have to race to catch the red flyer before it reached the ground. Not once in many times did the arrow reach the ground, and at each capture the sparrow would return with its prize to the coolie.

These were birds that the coolie had caught in France and trained while in bullets. There was nothing about the bird to single it out as a specially intelligent creature, beyond just an ordinary sparrow, yet the birds took a great delight in the sport and were wonderfully quick at the difficult art.

Seated delightedly on a stump of a tree, Bobbie did not appear to be enjoying the church picnic. The rector's wife noticed him in time and hustled over. "What is the matter, Bobbie, haven't you had enough to eat?" "Oh, yes, ma'am, but I feel I don't want all I got," was the disconcerting reply.

Inventors Seek New Methods of Flight

IT was Icarus, you will remember. Little Reader, who was credited by ancient mythology with the first attempt at flight. Fashioning wings of wax Icarus is said to have risen far above the ground and to have drawn on his head the anger of the gods. The gods to punish the presumption of the mortal, runs the myth, caused Icarus to fly too close to the sun and the wings fell off. Icarus perished.

To-day, not in mythology but in hard fact, mortals are again trying to invent wings that will support their weight in the air. True, they are not proceeding quite in the same manner as Icarus, for they have inventions that the ancients knew nothing about to help them in their modern quest. After perfecting flying machines that will travel close on 200 miles an hour man is now busy with experiments which may give him an even greater command in the air—the glider tests now being carried on in many parts of the world are designed to that end.

It is interesting to note that modern aircraft, as far as heavier than air craft are concerned, sprang from the use of engineless gliders in the first place. Students of aviation in the early 1900s made modified man-carrying box kites and put these on wheels. Later more efficient kites, or gliders, were fashioned; more in the shape of the modern monoplane. These were placed on wheels and let run their course down a prepared incline until, when traveling at a high rate of speed they ran off the end of the chute into the air. In this manner many gliders stayed in the air a matter of minutes and even traveled for considerable distances before coming slowly to earth.

The steam engine, and in turn the gasoline engine, was harnessed to drive these aircraft which then became aeroplanes, advancing from the glider stage. More particularly in recent years, man has experimented with one set of wings—the monoplane, two sets or the biplane, and these, on from, in the year of the triplane and multiplane machines. Aircraft have been developed that will carry considerable loads, up to ten tons; and travel at speeds up to nearly 200 miles an hour.

War days called for faster and still faster machines without giving inventors much time to see how this was to be achieved. Now that a form of peace again rests upon the world inventors have turned their minds back to the structure of the aircraft used and have set out to discover the best method of flight. Hereofore the average aeroplane wing has been slightly curved, called "cambered," so that its passage through the air urged by a powerful engine, will form sufficient air pressure underneath the plane and suction on top to raise the whole machine as well as push it along.

The wing, you will note, has been fixed, as far as all general purposes go. Now gliders are being made that may have as their motive power the actual "flapping" of the wings. This has not yet been accomplished but it is the object that is engaging the attention of aeronauts minute-to-minute. The bird uses this method of flight to great success. Perhaps in the seagull you will find one of the best examples of motion in the air without much apparent effort. By a singularly lazy series of "flaps" the seagull can remain in the air and travel surprising distances with very little effort.

It is to the glider then that man has reverted in order to learn more about the science of flight, that line which separates the limits of human knowledge and the natural accomplishment of the birds. Now glider tests are made from a height by launching the glider out into the air after a quick run down hill. The aviator balances his machine so that it will come to earth as slowly as possible, gliding forward and downward much as you would shoot a paper dart.

Some wing-forms hold a glider longer in the air than others, it is learned, and the actual form of the aeroplane wing will be modified as the results of these tests. The average aeroplane even with its heavy engine can glide nearly a mile for every thousand feet it is in the air. Gliders, of course, can outdistance this, and one experimenter recently succeeded in staying in the air over two hours without an engine at all.

The most sanguine experimenters do not say that they will fly from place to place irrespective of altitude, without an engine, for that would be against known principles of flying; but what they are learning is how to make the aeroplane wing so that it will do its work most effectively.

From this increased knowledge may well grow a more efficient and cheaper form of aviation, on low powered engines and safer engines. To the heavy and pluck of the old pioneer gliders the world to-day owes its knowledge of flying; and so to the pluck of experimenters to-day the world of to-morrow will owe its command of the third element, the air.

Devotion of Pet Saved Soldier

THE devotion of dogs to their masters has been too often recounted to be surprising or unexpected. Few human beings can equal the blind love that the most mongrelly stray dog will lavish on all too often a worthless master. In the case where the dog is a real pet and well cared for this devotion is easier to understand but not a bit less touching.

The impulse that led Henry O'Malley, a private in the famous Canadian infantry regiment in the late war, to stop and talk to a stray mongrel on the wayside was a lucky one for that gallant man, for the dog saved his life. It was during the lull in the fighting before the Canadian troops had moved into the Ypres sector that O'Malley was walking from his billet out along a country road.

Technically he was on an errand for an officer, but in performing this duty he was taking a look at the countryside thereabout. Being tired the private sat down on a bank and had not been there long when a small dog came sniffing along the road, lost, and stopped in front of O'Malley. "Hello, old fellow, and what do you want?" queried the trooper, patting the dog on the head. To cut a long story short, O'Malley smuggled that dog everywhere with him for the next three weeks when his regiment moved to Ypres.

It was in the line at Ypres that O'Malley was badly wounded and fell in a shell hole somewhat out of the way of the passing troops. His dog stayed with him, though how the little chap came to be there at all was a mystery for it was forbidden to have dogs anywhere in the line; but there he was and there he stayed until he had saved his master's life.

Some two days later a body of men were passing along that way though the road they were taking would not have brought them in sight of the shell hole where O'Malley lay unconscious. They heard the dog whining piteously and went to investigate. O'Malley was brought in to a dressing station and eventually lived to get well.

What became of his pet, you ask. Why on a farm in Ontario to this day you would find O'Malley, now a prosperous rancher, and not far away would be Sport, the dog that gave him his chance of life. O'Malley waited six months to get him through the quarantine regulations, but succeeded, and if all goes well the pair will be together for many a happy day to come. Sport is not much to look at; a dog fancier would call him a mongrel, but to O'Malley Sport is a chum.

FRIEND OR FOE?

Being Further Adventures of "Ben" and "Tom Seeley," Contributed By Mrs. Harrison Eke

"LUMMIE," cried Tom, staring in front of him, "where did all those boys spring from? I thought we would be the first to arrive."

"More the merrier," exclaimed Alan Joyce.

"No, and I'm glad. You'd be seeing wild geese instead of ducks."

Ben gazed at Tom forlornly.

"No," replied Tom sharply, "wait until we've unhitched the team."

Ben saw there was no chance of another meal so he resolved instead to enter into the spirit of the moment. Taking their guns a few moments later, they were successful in getting quite a few birds within a short space of time.

"Why, there's 'Laddie,'" shouted Billy Wilson, excitedly struggling through the long grass to the shore. The dog, who had seen the boys, came swimming towards them with a duck in his mouth.

"Good dog," said Tom, when they reached dry land, "that's one we didn't shoot."

"Joe's with him," cried Billy Wilson, joyfully looking ahead. "Guess he shot that plunk. See, he's coming for it."

Joe Wilson and another lad his own age were rowing in a small boat towards them.

"Say," shouted the late boy, "we shot that duck!"

Tom Seely glared at the boy in the boat. Had a rattle-snake suddenly confronted him with its ugly warning of approach, Tom could not have been more ready to strike.

"Oh," he muttered grimly, "is that the 'High-brow' we were to meet? I was at the same college." I remember Joe Wilson. He was one of the meanest boys in the school. It was through him I was sent there.

"Where you, Tom?" gasped Ben. "What did he do?"

"What did he do?" repeated Tom. "Why, he broke every street lamp on the street as he went on."

He wasn't at college then," grinned Tom, "but spending a few days with his folks. He had a chum as mean as he was. I knew this lad a chum as acquainted and one evening he broke every street lamp just for mischief. When it was found out, he and his chum blamed it on to me. I had no witnesses. It was two against one. Now you know, Ben, why I was sent to school and why I don't like young at the time to remember the incident."

However, he recalled a boy living on the same street being sent away because of the damage to the lamps; but was unaware it was his own brother. He looked shame-faced as he espied Joe waving and shouting as he neared them to claim the bird.

"College," went on Tom in disgust, "he should have been sent on an island like we read of in books. That would have been the best place for him."

"Did you live on the same street as the Wilsons?"

"Yes," replied Tom, "they left the Old Country when I went to school. They left Joe at the school."

"What was he left for?" queried Ben curiously.

"Fighting," replied Tom savagely, "but I'm going to give him all the fight he wants. Just let me get at him, that's all."

Tom divested himself of his coat, then turned up his sleeves.

"You land right here, Joe Wilson, so's I can get you for telling fibs on me. Come on, or I'll fight you fiercely."

Joe Wilson heard the threat of the boy on the shore and was surprised to see the boy whom he had once wronged. In a moment of bravado he unwisely rose to his feet with disastrous results. The boat capsized and the two boys were soon struggling in the water. They were both good swimmers, but Joe Wilson took cramp. With an effort the other boy clung to the upturned boat, holding Joe up at the same time, and calling frantically for help. Tom Seely's threats were at once silenced. He saw only a boy in danger. His hatred, his vows of vengeance, all bitterness past and present, were forgotten. The boy needed help, such as he could give. He jumped into the water and swam to his enemy's aid. With great difficulty Tom relieved the exhausted companion whom he told to swim to shore. The rest of the boys were now swimming out to help. Even with their assistance, Tom was almost exhausted when he reached shore with his burden, but had sufficient strength to render first aid which he had been taught at school, and to give the rest instructions.

Ben lost no time in catching a team of horses and hitching them to the first rig he saw. In a short time they were being driven with all speed to Wrigley's farm. Mamie Wilson came hurriedly out. Ben informed her what had happened. She immediately gave such assistance as she was able while Ben took a fresh horse and went for the doctor. The warmth revived Joe Wilson and the anxious onlookers were rewarded by a flicker of the eyelids. Then he opened his eyes.

"I'm glad he didn't die," sniffed Billy.

"So'm I," said Mamie, who moved quietly about the room doing the best she knew for the boy's comfort. Tom was rapidly recovering from his exhaustion and when the doctor came a little later, he was almost himself. Joe was in a very weak condition, but the report which the doctor gave after examination cheered those concerned. Towards evening Joe was feeling better and stared strangely at Tom, who sat by his bedside.

"Did you save me, Tom?" he asked faintly.

"Did you save me, Tom?" repeated Joe.

"Lummie, Joe, it was nothing; anybody would have done the same thing."

"Would they? Not after the way I treated you? Gee, Tom, I'm a bad actor."

"Forget it, Joe, shake it off. Your hands met."

"What's it going to be, Tom, friend or foe?"

"Friends," replied Tom, holding Joe's hand in a firm grip. "Friends, always."

(The End.)

Practical Joker May Be Guilty of Manslaughter

ON Sunday last the night watch of the headquarters hall at the Victoria Fire Department's station on Cormorant Street was called out twice in response to a false alarm. Every week now for almost a year there have been false alarms, and the greater proportion of these are deliberate acts on the part of certain persons yet uncaught. Justly or unjustly, suspicion has fallen upon groups of boys between the ages of ten and fifteen years. If anyone who rang in a false alarm knew what it meant there would be few needless runs for the fire ladders.

At the station in the city word of a fire is received either by telephone or from an alarm box. When the first word of an alarm is to hand all stand by, and as soon as the street is located the machines race out as fast as the drivers can handle them in the busy city traffic. At night the danger of hurting someone in a sharp run to a call is much greater than in day time, for often the driver cannot see pedestrians who wander in the roadway until it is too late and someone is hurt.

Now take, for the sake of example, the first false alarm that was rung in on a certain day last week. The alarm was turned in, we find, at 8:10 p.m., or after dusk. The fire rigs, three in all, made a dash at the limit of their allotted speed to a distance of two miles from their station. At one point in that mad dash children crowded on to the roadway to see the engines pass. A hobnob was hurt, luckily, but a child might easily have fallen under the wheels and been killed.

How would the practical joker who turned in that alarm feel? If he were caught the law would hold him guilty of manslaughter, and if he were not caught, he would go through life at least one day on his hands. It is not only our duty to discourage those of our companions who are guilty of this form of practical joke, but also to aid the authorities in finding the culprit.

Another side of the matter that the public does not often see comes in the lives of the firemen themselves. They go on duty in two watches; the night watch may be called out at all hours of the night, so the men are permitted to lie down without disturbing. An alarm is turned in, and a rush takes place, the men sliding down the polished brass pillars of the station to take up their positions on their respective rigs.

Perhaps after attending two needless alarms they will be called on to fight a serious fire, where they lives will be in constant danger. Often while the engines are at a false alarm a real fire occurs, and there, too, the practical joker has much to answer for in this regard. Though they be blamed for it, it is hard to believe that boys of fifteen years of age or so would do this, and certainly if they do, they must do it without a realization of what it means.

How to Make an Addition and Multiplication Frame

MATERIALS: Strips of wood, card, paper, brads.

Hundreds of thousands of teachers and parents spend hundreds of hours of time in teaching children to add, subtract, and multiply. The use of frames such as the one diagrammed above, makes possible over 4,000 different combinations of figures. Change from one combination to another can be made almost instantaneously.

Start by cutting the two side pieces, 4 in. x 1/2 in. x 2 1/2 in. and two strips, 1/2 in. x 1/2 in. x 2 1/2 in. Nail the strips along the inside of the side pieces, 1/2 in. from the front edge. Cut some pieces, 1/2 in. x 1 1/2 in. and nail these crosswise to the 1/2 in. strips, to form the frame. Note that a 1/2 in. space is left above and below each strip.

Now lay out and cut stencils for the figures. Get a piece of pliable, glossy cloth, or white paint or ink will not run. Hem the edges. Make light pencil guide lines, so that all numbers will be stenciled in even rows.

Cut the two end pieces, 1/2 in. x 1 1/2 in. x 19 in., and nail them on so that they cover the ends of the cloth, thus holding the cloth in place.

The cloth is about 12 in. longer than the frame. This slack is taken up by four slides, which are slipped in the 1/2 in. spaces between the front cross-pieces. Every time a slide is inserted, it obscures one row of figures, thus making many more different combinations possible. To make combinations, put slides in different slots. One slide has a curtain tacked on it. This draws a line under two, three, or more rows of figures, as desired.

A lengthwise strip, 1/2 in. x 1 1/2 in. x 25 1/2 in., tacked along the left edge of the front of the frame, holds one end of the slides in their places. Wooden buttons, as shown in the diagram, hold the other ends.

Four panels, 2 1/2 in. x 25 in., made of heavier-board, thin board, or cardboard, with small holes in one end, may be hung from brads which are inserted, one at the top of each row of figures, thus exposing or obscuring as many vertical rows as desired.

TAKING NO CHANCES

The small son of a shrewd financier was entertaining his uncle, who presently gave him a quarter.

"Suppose," said his uncle, "I gave you a thousand dollars—what would be the first thing you would do?"

"Count it," said the son of his father.

JUDGE MOWAT FATHER OF THE SQUIRREL CLUB

When Absent-Minded Friend Forgot to Mail Dinner Invitations 25 Years Ago.

MR. JUSTICE MOWAT, of the Supreme Court of Ontario, has the distinction of being the creator of a club, which, although a quarter of a century has elapsed since its birth, has never been mentioned in public print, and while it has a name, is without officers or organization of any kind. It is known as the "Squirrel Club."

Mr. Justice Mowat.

But unique as the club may be, that which is more so is the circumstances under which it came into existence. Mr. Mowat and a coterie of intimate friends—a round dozen in all—had decided to celebrate the departure of the old year and the advent of the new by a dinner at the Military Club, in Toronto. Not wishing to confine such an auspicious event to their own immediate round dozen, a selected list of about seventy other militia officers was drawn up, to whom one of the twelve was deputed to extend a formal invitation.

About ten o'clock on that particular thirty-first of December the twelve promoters of the feast filed into the dining room. Everything was found in perfect order. The table was laid for seventy-five guests, and one of the best orchestras in Toronto was in the act of tuning up its instruments. But not one of the selected list of guests was present. And when the clock pointed to 10.30, and still none of the guests had arrived the situation became intense. Finally someone asked the provisional secretary if he had prepared the invitations.

"I did," he replied. And then, after a pause, he exclaimed, "By heavens, I can't recall mailing them."

"Well, boys, we are here, and what is more, we're going to stay," declared Mr. Mowat.

"Hear, hear," shouted the twelve. And such a good time did they have, that before the new year was an hour old the little coterie concurred in a suggestion of Mr. Mowat's that until death called them hence they would stick together under the style and name of the "Squirrel Club."

And stick together they did. But the membership to-day, after a lapse of a quarter of a century, has dwindled to two—Mr. Justice Mowat and another Torontonian—the remaining ten having "gone hence." But the other remaining member facetiously declares that Mr. Justice Mowat owes his seat on the Supreme Court of Ontario to the influence of the "Squirrel Club."—W. L. E.

Famous Actress at 74

MISS ELLEN TERRY, most charming of English actresses, and one of the greatest who for more than thirty years made Shakespeare's heroes popular with the playgoer, is here seen in her wheel chair at Walmer Castle fete, where she took the part of the "Old Woman Who Lived in the Shoe."

Talking to the Fishes

ONE of the best known men in eastern Canada is Dr. Clarence MacKinnon, principal of the Presbyterian College, Halifax. He has held pastorates in some of the largest congregations in the Presbyterian church, including St. Andrew's, Sydney, Park Street, Halifax, and Westminster, Winnipeg, and is very popular as a gifted and eloquent lecturer. He was not always eloquent. He is a modern Demosthenes who overcame difficulty of speech by strong will and patient practise under a careful instructor.

In his early manhood he served in one of the mission fields in Nova Scotia and went far into the woods to practise his elocution lesson and fish in the lake and streams. A man who was peeling hemlock bark in the woods heard indistinct, loud and distant cries, and remembering that some years before a fisherman, whose cries had been heard but unheeded, was drowned in the lake of that locality, he left his work and hurried through the woods. When he came up to the fisherman he asked with annoyance, "What are you yelling so for?" With his usual pleasant manner that ever disarms his opponents, young MacKinnon replied, "Oh, I am just talking to the fishes." "Torment you," said the man, "I've come two miles to pull you out of the water, and now I've a good mind to throw you in."

Very Good Reason for Not Giving Up His Seat

Given by Mr. Justice McCarthy When Calgary M.P.

THE report that a member of the Ontario legislature was asked a short time ago by a labor union for his resignation recalls that when "Luggy," now Mr. Justice Maitland S. McCarthy, of Alberta, but formerly one of the greatest athletes who ever sat in the House of Commons—he captained the Hamilton Tigers rugby team and was considered one of the best wing men in the dominion and was also a fine oarsman, stroking the Argonaut crew for several years—to resume, when Mr. Justice McCarthy was M. P. for Calgary a lodge of grain growers (for his constituency took in some farming districts) sent him a resolution asking him to resign. He replied that he would like to oblige them, but was afraid that if he resigned he would not be elected again.

Mr. Justice McCarthy.

Needless to say, the matter ended there.

LORD METHUEN'S STORY OF THE CORPORAL'S GIRL

HOW many people offhand can recall the name of Methuen? Yet it was well known during the Boer war, when the now veteran field-marshal was meeting constant ill-fate in the early tragic days of the Tugela and Colenso. Nearly ten years ago his name was mentioned as a possible successor to the Duke of Connaught as governor-general of Canada. Since that, during the stirring days of the great war, he has been hidden in oblivion. Few know that for the last two years he has been holding the sinecure of governor of the Tower of London.

So it is almost with a shock one reads in an English paper that the old man is a prime teller of good stories about the army. One that he is fond of relating concerns a corporal who was showing his best girl over a training camp.

He was explaining the drill to her, when suddenly a squad of men raised their rifles, which, of course, were unloaded, and took aim in their direction.

The girl turned pale, staggered, and shrank back. The corporal's arms were ready, but she recovered quickly.

"It was the rifles," she explained; "they frightened me."

The young corporal thought hard for several seconds. Then:

"Come out on the lines," he said, "and watch the artillery at big gun practice."

APPLAUSE FOR "HOME BREW" HEAD OF NEW YORK STATE

MISS MARTHA VAN RENSSLAER, head of the School of Domestic Economy at Cornell University and head of the Home Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture in New York State, is a very dignified and law-abiding citizen. Recently she had to speak at a public convention at Albany. The chairman, who did the introducing, had no notes, so just before he announced Miss Van Rensselaer, he turned to his neighbor and asked, "What is Miss Van Rensselaer does?" His companion replied off her titles, ending with "head of the Home Bureau of the state of New York." One thing stayed in the mind of the chairman. Taking the middle of the stage he announced in loud, clear tones, "Ladies and gentlemen, I have the pleasure to present to you Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, head of home brew in the state of New York."

There was a noticeable awakening throughout the audience. The male contingent, especially, applauded. Miss Van Rensselaer made her constructive talk on home economics and then offered to answer any questions that might be asked. One gentleman voiced the question of most of the male audience. "Miss Van Rensselaer," he asked, "will you explain to us about home brew?"

A HUTCHINSON STORY

THE news that A. S. M. Hutchinson's novel, "If Winter Comes," is to be produced on the screen recalls a story the famous author was heard tell about a friend of his who was once staying with a wealthy host.

When he went to his bedroom he found the dressing table heaped with silver articles of toilet, and promptly bestowed them in a drawer to make room for his own humble belongings. His visit ended, he left for home by an early morning train. Arrived home, he was greeted by a telegram from the wife of his host, demanding:

"What have you done with the silver?"

He wired the reply: "Poor but honest; look in the lower drawer."

The Frog March

A LITTLE lad, when his rich bachelor uncle came on a visit, rushed excitedly up to him and said:

"Uncle, please make a noise like a frog."

"Why?" asked the old man.

"Because when I asked daddy to buy me a motor scooter he said, 'Wait till your uncle croaks!'"—Pearson's Weekly.

William Jennings Bryan Gets His Hair Cut

THE well-known American had a mop of hair something like the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's, but he has recently sacrificed it to the barber. Here, Bryan, displaying his newly-conceived haircut is seen talking to John Wanamaker, the "merchant prince," in the office of the latter in Philadelphia.

From Jail to a Premier's Home on Christmas Eve, Homeless Lad is Bailed Out by Hon. John Oliver

"B.C.'s Trade Mark" Has a Big Heart—His Gift and Lecture to His Stenographer Who Got Married.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON.

THE drawing attached is B. C.'s trade mark—usually known as Hon. John Oliver, premier of British Columbia, sketched when he was busy dressing down the opposition in the provincial legislature. Mr. Oliver has had a score of nicknames in his lengthy public career—anything from "Honest John" to "B.C.'s Grand Old Man," but the most apt is his newest—"B.C.'s Trade Mark." That was officially conferred upon him a short time ago after he had turned Ottawa into turmoil over western freight rates. The "Wild Man of the West" some of the Ottawa folk called him when he waded into the House of Commons committee on freight rates and had its members wondering what he would do next. B. C.'s Trade Mark stuck with them.

Perhaps a little brusque at times in his business hours, Mr. Oliver has a pretty big heart. A couple of winters ago on a cold, drizzling Christmas Eve, a homeless lad landed in a Victoria jail on some minor charge. The premier heard of it, drove down to the police station, bailed the lad out, made himself personally responsible for his return and took him to his own home for Christmas. Afterwards, the boy got out of his trouble.

A few weeks ago the premier's personal stenographer decided to wed. The day before the wedding people marveled as the prime minister of British Columbia staggered over to his office in the parliament buildings on foot under the load of a huge parcel—an enormous cut-glass bowl which he presented to the lady as a wedding gift. They would have marveled more if they had heard his private lecture to the bride on the responsibilities of married life.

Mr. Oliver is not a brilliant speaker, but what he lacks in smooth, well-turned sentences he makes up in two-fluted vigor and an extraordinary gift of repartee. He has a "come back" to every thrust from his honorable friends on the other side of the House. One day the opposition was demanding a general election and the premier was telling them what a miserable failure they had made of government when they were in power a few years before.

"At least we went to the country sometimes!" one of the Conservative speakers replied.

Without a second's hesitation the premier retorted, "Quite true, my friend, you did. But you didn't come back!"

Next day, one of his steadiest clients came in and asked to see Mr. Meighen. The partner said Mr. Meighen was busy, but that he could attend to his case. Finally the man consented. The case was rather lengthy. During the second day of the trial the man from Galicia burst into Mr. Meighen's private office. "I want you to come to court," he insisted.

"My partner is a good lawyer," protested Mr. Meighen.

"Yes, he is," admitted the client, "but you raise better row."

REV. S. WESLEY DEAN, head of the finance department of the Methodist Church of Canada, is one of the most popular men in the Methodist Church among his brother clergymen. One of the reasons for this, no doubt, is his un-failing sense of humor. He can be serious and drive home a point in telling fashion, but he knows the value of a jest at the right moment.

It happened that at the Toronto Conference Mr. Dean was interrupted in the midst of his report of the church finances by the arrival of the scrutineers with the news that Rev. I. G. Bowles had been elected president. Immediately Mr. Dean was forced into the background while Mr. Bowles was brought to the platform and installed in the chair. The new president then delivered a vigorous inaugural address in which he hit out hard at the over-organization of the church and the multiplying of confectional officers, also the practice of preachers leaving their pulpits to take secretarial and office posts.

Finally Mr. Dean was given a chance to finish his interrupted report. He came forward with a smile and began by congratulating the new president. He mentioned that they had been school boys together. And then, making a good-natured reference to the address of Mr. Bowles and his criticism of over-organization, the finance superintendent quoted the statement of the man of faith in ancient times: "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him."

After that he got an excellent hearing.

ACTING under the orders of his medical advisers, Lord Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor of England, has given up smoking. Since he has always consumed an incredible number of strong cigars, as well as being a heavy pipe-smoker, it will be a hardship for him to abandon the habit. But it is the only cure for the eye trouble from which he has suffered.

Lord Birkenhead may have to imitate M. Clemenceau, the French statesman, who was also compelled to give up tobacco. He found the task difficult and adopted heroic methods. He worked day after day with a box of his favorite cigars open in front of him, and dared himself to take one. He conquered his inclination and before long took no interest in the weed.

Col. Currie Likes Not The Number Thirteen

He Has a Real Reason For it, Too—A Hoodoo Trip.

IT is just about a year ago since a severe cloudburst caused a washout on the Grand Trunk Railway just north of Bradford. Coupled with it was an experience of Colonel John A. Currie, ex-M.P.

"I am not superstitious," said the colonel, "but I hope this won't occur again."

"Leaving Ottawa on Friday night," he went on, "I had to take berth 13 on the sleeper. I never thought of it until we reached Toronto. The train was an hour late. I missed my connection for Collingwood and had to rush in a taxicab to Davenport, where I caught the North-ern-Grand Trunk train. On reaching Collingwood, where I had a director's meeting to attend, I found that my papers and documents had been left behind. I started back for Toronto. We had not got far from Allandale when the train stopped and after a wait I went out and enquired the cause. I was told there was a washout and we had to stay there until the Toronto train came up and transfer. It took several hours to do this and finally we got back to Toronto about one o'clock in the morning. Mindful of what happened after riding in berth 13 I told the taxi driver who took me home to stop at every blamed street intersection as I would take no more chances with that hoodoo."

Col. John Currie.

Everybody who ever lived in Manitoba before the abolition of the bar recalls the famous wedding celebrations that were staged by the foreigners newly arrived from continental Europe. Whenever a wedding in the foreign quarter was scheduled among the social events of the evening, the city editor always assigned the police reporter to watch for a murder, or at least a stabbing affray. Of course the aftermath in the police court next day made work for lawyers of the province.

Would Have None But Meighen for His Case

So Galician Demanded That He Come to Court.

WHEN the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen first commenced the practice of law in Portage La Prairie he was in demand for police court cases. The present leader of the official opposition was a great fighter in those days of his youth.

Next day, one of his steadiest clients came in and asked to see Mr. Meighen. The partner said Mr. Meighen was busy, but that he could attend to his case. Finally the man consented. Finally Mr. Dean was given a chance to finish his interrupted report. He came forward with a smile and began by congratulating the new president. He mentioned that they had been school boys together. And then, making a good-natured reference to the address of Mr. Bowles and his criticism of over-organization, the finance superintendent quoted the statement of the man of faith in ancient times: "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him."

After that he got an excellent hearing.

ROOM OF POOR HERMIT FOR FATHER VAUGHAN

Although the Great Priest, Now Stricken Was a Society Lion—His Austere Life.

FATHER BERNARD VAUGHAN, who has been stricken with paralysis, is one of the most influential figures in the Roman Catholic Church, although he is not so much in the limelight as when he delivered his sensational series of sermons on "The Sins of Society," about sixteen years ago. From the pulpit of Farm Street Church, which is in the heart of Mayfair, the smartest and most fashionable district of London, he fired most devastating broadsides on the manners and habits of the "idle rich."

Sunday after Sunday his church was packed to the doors by the smart set, who were fascinated by his diatribes against themselves instead of being angry with him. Society honored him, and he was the drawing card of the season in all the west-end drawing rooms, while the famous Drury Lane drama, "The Sins of Society" was founded on his sermons. To-day, when he preaches (which is not very often), the church doors have to be closed early.

The popular view of Father Vaughan is that he not only mixes with the most exclusive people, but lives in luxurious surroundings in the swell apartment. The reverse is the case. The writer had occasion to call on him one day, and when ushered into the great priest's room found—bare walls, kalsomined and tarnished looking; bare boards without even a rug; a small bedstead, such as one uses in camp; a cheap washstand and utensils; a sofa, at which even a junk man might look askance; and one chair, which with its slightly truncated leg gave the visitor a rather wobbly seat. There were several shelves with books—no bookcase.

As he puffed his cigarette Father Vaughan remarked: "People imagine me living here in the lap of luxury; in a swagger place with all the comforts of the rich. What you see is all I have and all I want."

He comes of a fairly well-to-do family, and despite his social environment, has always spent a great deal of his time in the east end of London doing good among the poor.—H. R.

EXPERT ADVICE ON RADIO
By A. Hyatt Verrill
Radio Technologist and author of "Home Radio."

DO WE SEE BY RADIO?

To say that we see by radio seems rather far fetched, and yet the human eye has been likened to the aerial of a radio set, the nerves recording the waves of light, and carrying them along to the final impression on the brain. The optic nerve serves as the detector to transform light waves to sensations or impressions in the brain. This might well be contrasted with the crystal tube of the radio set.

With the sensation of heat, much the same thing happens, except that our skin acts as the aerial to pick up the wave, the nerves carrying the wave to the brain where it is registered as heat.

Many scientists believe that heat and light waves are identical, varying only in quality or length, and that there is a regular graduation from one to the other. And we are almost convinced that their theory is correct, for we can feel the heat of the sun and the light of the sun.

Modern science claims that the chief difference between heat, light and radio waves is the difference in wave length. The waves of light are very short, and the waves of radio are very long.
